Colonist's King Fisherman Contest Opens Biggest-Ever Season May 1

An expanded Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest, open to everyone who fishes on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, will start May 1 and continue until Oct. 15.

Big prize of this year's contest will be a 12-foot Feather Craft aluminum car-top boat complete with five-horsepower outboard motor and car racks.

It will be the hidden weight prize for all fish entered by Colonist subscribers. (See picture on page 2.)

New features are the inclusion of small-mouthed bass, reduction in qualifying size of trout to one pound from two pounds, and opening of the contest to non-residents of Vancouver Island.

More than 7,500 entries are expected this season compared with the 5,192 entries last year, which were more than double those received the first year of the contest.

Only professional guides and commercial fishermen are ineligible.

That non-residents may now fish for crests and King Fisherman trophies will be good news for up-Island resorts, who have complained that Americans have hitherto been barred from the contest, which has grown to be the most popular and biggest of its kind in Canada.

If a non-resident wins a trophy The Daily Colonist will present a second trophy to the Islander catching the biggest fish.

King Fisherman Points trophy was so highly prized last year that contest officials have decided to increase the number awarded to 125 crests a month, for the 25 heaviest fish in each of the five categories.

Trout, small-mouthed black bass, tyee salmon, spring salmon and coho salmon are the categories. Salmon must be over five pounds to qualify and tyee salmon over 30 pounds and caught in tyee waters. Trout and bass must be one pound or more to qualify.

Non-subscribers to The Daily Colonist may compete for trophies and crests, but subscribers may, in addition, win scores of valuable merchandise prizes in monthly and contest-long hidden-weight draws.

There will be a handsome King Fisherman trophy for the angler catching the biggest fish in each category and if he is a subscriber to the Colonist there will be an additional merchandise prize valued at $125.

Contest entry forms will be available at most Island fishing camps and sporting goods stores which will be designated as official weigh-in stations. Teams of Colonist contest officials are now touring the Island explaining this year's contest to some 100 weigh-in stations.

Forecast—Rain, slightly cooler

At Least 16 Dead, More Missing

Paralyzed Pensioners Perish in Beds As Fire Engulfs Montreal Aged Home

No Fire Escapes On Old Building

(From Colonist News Services)

MONTREAL—Morgue officials reported 16 persons known dead and at least four still unaccounted for following a fire that gutted the 200-year-old Henri home for the aged in suburban Pointe aux Trembles last night.

A spokesman for the home said 38 persons were in the building when the fire broke out, 30 of whom were resident pensioners ranging in age from 55 to 80. Twelve were completely paralysed. There were no fire escapes on the building.

Fire Chief Luc Delorme said the victims "died in their beds."

"This is the worst I've seen in 32 years with the department," he said.

ROOF FELL

"The roof fell in on them right after we got there," he added. "We couldn't get in to them until it was too late."

Men from two fire departments arrived at the isolated home and found the blaze already beyond control.

At least two pensioners are believed to have perished by re-entering their blazing rooms apparently to retrieve some treasured keepsake.

Two old men, their normal sight nearly gone, and deaf to firemen's cries, were seen stumbling along a fiery corridor, arms linked. Searching vainly for escape, they staggered into a greater inferno, lost their sense of direction and fell into the blaze.

A dense crowd, kept at bay by police, watched silently as body after body was brought out by tireless firefighters. Each time an audible gasp went up from hundreds of throats, reflecting the stark horror felt by all in this city.

Relatives thronged the morgue, pestered police and firemen and begged reporters for news. No one could help them. Morgue officials were too frantically busy with their grisly task; and no one else knew anything.

The fire was believed to have started in the electrical wiring of the building, which is concentrated in one corner, and ignited conducting wires and poles for hundreds of yards on each side of the home.

DOWNSTAIRS

The 22 residents who escaped the inferno were reportedly watching television on the ground floor, and scrambled through two front doors as the fire roared up two walls and engulfed the upstairs sleeping quarters.

A volunteer worker said there were no calls for help during the brief period when parts of the building were accessible from the outside.

Nation's Fate in Doubt

Syria 'Invades' Jordan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)—Syrian troops marched into Jordan yesterday over the reported opposition of pro-western King Hussein and despite warnings from Israel.

The future of the poverty-stricken state, caught between opposing forces and torn by an internal political crisis, was in doubt.

As Socialist Abdel Halim Nimr announced formation of new government, diplomatic sources in Amman, capital of Jordan, confirmed that more Syrian troops had begun moving into the northern sectors of the country to reinforce the 3,000-man brigade already there since the Suez crisis last fall.

Saudi Arabia, which sides with Hussein in his quarrel with leftwing and pro-Syrian elements, also has a 3,000-man brigade in Jordan, stationed near the southern towns of Maan and Akaba.

Hussein is reported to have appealed to Syrian president Shukri El Kuwatly for removal of all Syrian troops because the Syrian officers were plotting against him.

Milk, Juices, Bread, Fish All Up Food Budget Buys Less and Less

By JUDY GRAHAM

During the past three years, food prices in Victoria have increased 6.4 per cent.

The percentage increase is based on government statistics gathered several times during each year by pricing all necessary foods in a diet for a family of two adults and three children.

In the same period of 1954 to 1956, food prices in Vancouver on the same basis increased only 4.3 per cent. In 1954, food was an average of 3.1 per cent higher in Victoria, but the difference between here and Vancouver now has widened to 5.6 per cent.

The housewife doesn't worry too much about the percentage rise in food costs, but is very much aware of the fact that a $5 bag of groceries is gradually getting smaller and smaller.

"But, what can you do?" asked one woman. "They have you over a barrel because you have to eat."

Where does the woman of the house feel there has been the greatest increase? No two seem to agree.

"In tinned goods, especially fruit juices," said the mother of five growing children.

"Tinned meals such as beans, stews, and such," said a busy working wife.

"Bread, soap and cheese spreads" . . . "canned fish prices increased the most."

The mother of five, Mrs. Harry Hoshal, said buying in large quantities, about $40 worth of food per trip is average for her, makes it difficult to watch the rising prices on separate items.

"But it's easy to see the total amount going up," Mrs. Hoshal said.

"The one item that really is noticeable in a large family is the milk bill," she said. "Milk for our family costs $30 every month—we buy four quarts every day.

"I've always thought there should be a special low price for families who buy milk by the gallon."

Milk is also a large item in the food bill for Mrs. Sheila Moilliet.

"Our milk bill comes to more per month than the meat bill, but, of course, all five of us drink milk," she said.

Several fruits and vegetables become "luxury" items during the winter and early spring.

"The children love bananas, but I just refuse to pay the price for them," said Mrs. Moilliet. "Tomatoes are another thing I won't buy at this time of year."

The difference in prices between here and Vancouver has been noticed by Mrs. Elliot Nicolls, a mother of three young children.

"On trips to Vancouver, we fill up the back seat with canned goods, biscuits and other staples which are cheaper," she said. "We have also found we can buy sides of meat for our freezer at least 10 cents per pound cheaper by buying it in the Fraser Valley."

Mrs. Hoshal, who was in Ottawa recently, said she found tinned and packaged food items up to four cents a pound cheaper in the east.

"But, I found I was paying quite a bit more for fresh vegetables in Ottawa than in Victoria," she said.

The cottage cheese, fruit and vegetables she used in reducing diets, which have been the fad in recent years, can also take a large bite out of the food money.

Women generally tend to start on a diet sometime in February — just when the fruits and vegetables are at peak prices.

What would people do if they didn't have to pay so much for food?

"We could save for a new house" . . . "buy a hi-fi record player" . . . "get some new furniture."

"We could live very well indeed if we didn't have to eat," is the nutshell philosophy of one housewife.

Sidney Boycotts School Opening

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of Sidney Village Commission, refused to attend the opening of a new gymnasium at North Saanich High School Friday night as he felt his presence there might be taken as endorsement by the commission of the present educational system.

Reeves of Saanich and Central Saanich, in the same school district, both attended.

While Education Minister Pearson was opening the gymnasium the commission was meeting to draft a resolution protesting the educational system, to be presented to the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

New Chesnut Offer

Free Flower Seeds

The Daily Colonist's popular garden columnist, M. V. Chesnut, today makes another offer of free seeds to readers.

This time it is cornflower seeds—for a new plant which he believes retains all the old-world charm and clear color of the Bachelors' Buttons. Details of the offer are in "Garden Notes" on page 35.

A coupon will be printed in The Daily Colonist Tuesday to be sent to this office with a stamped, addressed envelope. The outer envelope should be left unsealed.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SINCE the suicide of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Cairo, we have been showered with truisms and fragments of stale homespun philosophy, to the effect that the American people were not to blame for hounding an innocent man to death, and that a great many Americans are decent folk.

These dismal statements of the obvious have done little to soothe Canadian anger. Of course millions of Americans are intelligent and charming people.

Nevertheless, many Canadians are disturbed about the hysteria that troubles a section of the American populace; the venomous and addle-headed quality of certain American public men; and the outdated political system that allows such medicine-show mountebanks to become a nuisance to their own country and the world.

A Canadian newspaper recently made the astounding statement that the United States "government" was not to blame for the Norman affair.

The hearsay charges that apparently drove Norman to his death were pressed by a sub-committee of the United States Senate. The Senate is part of the legislative branch of the United States government.

The weird American system, inadequate for a 20th-century nation, places the two branches at odds with one another. Much of the time, left hand doesn't know what right hand is doing. In the Norman case, the executive branch opposed the trial of a foreign diplomat by slander; an organ of the legislative branch ignored this wise counsel.

Had the United States enjoyed responsible government, this could never have happened.

But the Americans seem to be stuck with their unwieldy system. To change their constitution, a political earthquake is needed.

* * *

"Time," the American news magazine that has long been striving by sneers and innuendo to weaken Canada's Commonwealth ties while masquerading under a phony maple leaf crest, said this about the Norman affair:

"Herbert Norman's suicide would have attracted relatively little attention had it not been for the fact that the U.S. Senae Internal Security Sub-committee . . . last month revived a charge that Norman had been a Communist during his student days at Columbia. . . . Because of the charge, his death caused worldwide headlines and recriminations."

Observe how cunningly this passage is slanted. It dismisses, without even saying so, the powerful suspicion that the sub-committee's charges hounded Norman to death; actually caused his death.

* * *

The Canadian edition of "Time" courts Canadian circulation by carrying a "Canadian Affairs" section at the front of the magazine. After that comes a "U.S. Affairs" section; and after that, "Foreign News." Under the title of "Foreign News," the news of Great Britain and other Commonwealth nations appears.

"Time" implies that Canada and the United States are one team together; and that Britain is an outsider.

The crafty publishers of "Time" and the lunatic fringe of Congress do not speak for the Americans as a people. But they speak for a solid part of the nation. It is mischievous to disguise that fact, because international friendships are not built on deceit. Luckily, the sane Americans themselves appear to be just as enraged against the offenders as we are.

Blast at Critic

'No Yes-Man for Casey' Reeve Fights Hall Plan

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash fired a new blast last night at Coun. Joseph Casey, who had criticized him for attempting to stall a proposed $225,000 addition to Saanich Municipal Hall.

The council, overriding the reeve, will seek permission from the municipal affairs department to transfer $95,000 from reverted land tax sales for the hall addition.

Mr. Ash, in a letter to the minister, Wesley Black, had protested council's action and urged the government to delay a decision.

Coun. Casey said Reeve Ash had "gone overboard" and didn't abide by majority rules, and that architect's plans were not final and he "pulled the $225,000 figure out of a hat."

Mr. Ash, announcing he had "no intention of becoming a yes-man to Coun. Casey," said he would continue to protest the addition.

He said a motion made by Mr. Casey to council, which was approved, recommended a specific drawing, at an approximate cost of $225,000, and that architects Whittaker and Wagg be instructed to prepare working drawings and call tenders.

The council, meanwhile, has appointed a committee to investigate the proposed addition and report back to an early-May meeting of the executive.

L. M. Salmond, president, said "That doesn't mean we are opposed or otherwise. We just want to find out some facts."

HAMILTON—Douglas McLeod, 30, was charged with attempted murder yesterday after his wife had been stabbed with a carving knife in a crowded supermarket near suburban Burlington. Clerks subdued Mrs. Irene McLeod's assailant and held him for police. Customers hurled canned goods at the man as he tried to flee from the store.

Dr. H. P. Johns Funeral Tuesday

Funeral service for Dr. Harold P. Johns, 46, director of vocational guidance for the provincial education department for the past 12 years, will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Sands Mortuary with Canon George Biddle officiating. Burial will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Dr. Johns died suddenly yesterday while on business on Salt Spring Island.

Born and educated in Victoria, he won his master's degree at University of British Columbia, and PhD at the University of Ottawa.

Dr. Johns taught in high schools at Prince Rupert, Mount View in Saanich and Victoria High School. He had been inspector for School District 63.

Dr. Johns was a member of the Kiwanis Club for the last 13 years, and a director of the symphony board for a number of years.

Surviving are his widow, Mildred; a daughter, Marianne, 13; a son, David, 10, at home at 1860 Oak Bay Avenue; a sister and two brothers.

'Musical Ride' Will Tour B.C.

Arrangements to put the "Ride" in every major centre of B.C. are being made by the B.C. Centennial Committee in co-operation with the west coast detachment of the RCMP and RCMP headquarters in Ottawa.

For more than two decades the musical ride has thrilled audiences in Canada, the United States and overseas. They were honored guests at the coronations of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth II, and this summer they are to make another visit to the United Kingdom to appear at the London Festival.

The finest graduates of the RCMP's equestrian school are recruited each year to perform the intricate, split-second routines. In all 32 horses and riders take part in the 20-minutes show.

Mounties wear their scarlet-coated dress uniforms for the ride while their mounts wear ceremonial tack, white head-ropes and bridle bands and large blue and gold saddle blankets.

"It is the committee's intention to stage the ride wherever it is feasible," centennial chief L. J. Wallace said. "A representative of the committee will make a complete tour of the province this summer to investigate staging facilities and to draw up a schedule of appearances."

Love Sun, Air? Be a Nudist

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Vancouver Island's nudist group, the Sol Sante Club, is seeking new members for the coming summer.

Walter J. Hannam, 22 Midwood, president of the club, said last night the club had grown from seven members to 70 since its inception in 1955, and the grounds at Shawnigan Lake could accommodate 200 to 300 more.

"Nudity is the most healthful state for a human being," he said. "We believe that sun, light and air are vital conditions of human well being."

Sol Sante Club is situated on 250 acres of land fronting onto Hogg Lake, formerly known as Little Shawnigan Lake, he said.

Persons wanting to join the club should write to Box 743, Victoria Post Office. They will be sent an application form and will later be interviewed by a committee of two, he said.

If approved applicants are invited to visit the camp. They do not have to remove their clothes.

Club rules are strictly enforced, he said. A married person is not allowed to join the club without his or her spouse and there is a limit on the number of single men. They must post a $100 good behavior bond.

Teen-agers are admitted as members, if their parents belong, or, if over 18, they are admitted with written consent of their parents.

Activities on the grounds include archery and horseshoe pitching.

Mayor of Edmonton To Get Cabinet Post

By TOM GREEN
(Colonist Ottawa Reporter)

OTTAWA — Prime Minister St. Laurent is preparing for some last-minute cabinet shifts before the general election on June 10, according to reports current here.

One move considered certain is that William Hawrelak, mayor of Edmonton, will be coming into the cabinet as minister without portfolio.

He will replace mines minister George Prudham, who is retiring from politics to return to private business and will not be a candidate in the June election. Mayor Hawrelak is Liberal candidate in Edmonton East, a seat represented in the parliament which has just been dissolved by Social Crediter Andrew Holowach.

Mr. Hawrelak will be the first Ukrainian in the federal cabinet.

Panama Issue 'Misinterpreted'

PANAMA CITY (AP) — President Ernesto de la Guardia's press office said last night statements concerning the Panama Canal Zone made by the president had been misinterpreted by the correspondent of the London Daily Express.

De la Guardia was quoted in an interview with Express correspondent Rene MacColl as saying Panama intends to "resume complete sovereignty" over the Panama Canal.

The statement by the press office said the president had reaffirmed to MacColl the position that "Panama retains sovereignty over the canal zone and has only granted jurisdiction in that strip for certain specific purposes."

It added: "This position will be defended at all times by Panamanians, inasmuch as it is based on treaties and agreements with the United States which are in force."

We Curse Helplessly

Up and Up Go Costs

By JUDY GRAHAM

Everyone curses them continually, but like the weather and taxes, it's difficult to do anything about steadily rising costs.

At the end of every month, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows just how much the prices of costs have increased—or, in a very few cases, decreased.

The consumer price index means little to the average housewife and she doesn't have to consult the figures to learn that she now pays more for tinned food, milk, eggs and other food staples.

It is interesting to note that increases were registered in all categories last year, including employment and wages, separate from consumer price index.

In the West Coast area, last year, food was up 2.4 per cent over 1955, shelter, 1.3 per cent; clothing, .5 per cent; household operation, taking in fuel and maintenance, 3.1 per cent and other commodities and services, .2 per cent.

Wages Up

In the same period, employment increased 3.7 per cent and wages went up 2.4 per cent.

Comparing Victoria and Vancouver on wages and food prices, figures show that Victoria wages are about one per cent lower than Vancouver's on the average, but that food prices are 5.8 per cent higher.

Housewives might not believe this, but in 1955 the food index showed a decrease of .1 per cent on the West Coast, clothing .5 per cent, and household operation .5 per cent.

Decreases were all picked up during 1956 increases, as previous figures showed. For example, clothing was .5 down in 1955 and .5 up in 1956.

Both major department stores in Victoria agree that clothing has "held the line" on prices in the past few years with little fluctuation up or down.

Synthetics

Although synthetics do not have much bearing on the prices of individual items, it is a factor in helping to keep the index rating as a whole practically on the level.

The introduction of synthetics can bring about lower production costs and this is passed down through the middle men to the consumer.

Certain items, such as wool sweaters, have increased mostly through the old law of supply and demand. Lately, there have not been enough sweaters to keep up with the retail market demand.

Greater volume of retail buying has also helped to keep prices down. Clothing sales have shown a general rise throughout the province. Also, money now is being directed to the clothing departments from household appliance and furnishings because of the cutdown on house building.

In the other direction, increased freight rates, wages and operating costs keep the prices up and stop the other factors dropping the prices any considerable amount.

Home Costs

Shelter, which is composed of rent and home ownership has increased a total of 3.6 per cent in the last two years. It showed a greater increase than any other category. Contributing to this increase is the rising cost of building materials.

Between January of 1954 and last December, building material prices in Canada rose 6.7 per cent. The greatest rise in the residential building material prices was in the 1955-56 period when the increase totalled 4.1 per cent.

Another factor in the building costs which applies directly to residential construction and the shelter index is the high price of labor.

B.C., as a whole, has the highest construction wages in Canada and has had for the past three years.

The consumer price index, on which most of these figures are based, was constructed to replace the cost-of-living index and the first figures were published in October, 1952.

Standards

It measures the average percentage change in retail prices of goods and services bought by a large and representative group of Canadian urban families. The change in title was made to clarify the fact that the index is a measure of price change and is not affected by changes in standards of living.

The indexes are calculated on the basis of 1949 prices equalling 100. For example, the consumer price index figure for Vancouver in February was 122.5 which means a 22.5 per cent average increase in prices since 1949.

At present, all west coast cities and towns must base their figuring on Vancouver figures for almost all indexes.

The Victoria Labor Council recently asked the Dominion Bureau of Statistics why Victoria was not included in the regional indexes.

The bureau, under the department of trade and commerce, replied only that the matter "has been considered many times."

U.K. Giants To Merge

LONDON (CP)—Courtaulds, Ltd., and British Celanese Corporation have announced plans for one of the largest industrial mergers in years.

Directors of the two firms, major producers of rayon and other synthetic fibres, said Thursday that Courtaulds will acquire the smaller British celanese firm.

Courtaulds has assets of £128,600,000 and British Celanese £32,000,000.

Liberals Take the Plunge

THE 22nd Parliament of Canada was dissolved by Governor-General Vincent Massey on Friday evening, quietly smothered by a Liberal administration in a rush to get to the country before there is any change in economic weather on this continent. The government, which a year ago had doubted if there would be an election this year and pointed out that it had until 1958 in office if necessary, was in such a hurry that a stock-split measure in Liberal hands died on the order paper in multiple sittings. The general election will be run off with comparable haste. With dissolution now, the enumeration of voters on April 22, official nomination of candidates on May 27, polling will follow on June 10.

The closing hours of the session were reminiscent of the pipeline debate and of much else that has been typical of the most autocratic regime Canada has seen in many a year. Mr. Howe, the Liberal strong man, was on his feet defying the Commons to make him give answers to questions asked of a cabinet minister. Mr. Harris, the party's soothsayer, was promising to look among odds and ends in the government books for higher civil service salaries. Promises to the electorate—east, west and centre—were everywhere. In the administration's hands meanwhile was $2,000,000,000 as an advance in earnest of the pre-election $5,200,000,000 budget which has neither been considered nor passed.

A voiceless Liberal bloc, some members of whom evidently have forgotten the roots of their Liberalism, stood in their seats and applauded these things; cheered for Mr. Howe as with arms akimbo he defied any member to get an answer out of him—on government business. That was a strange exhibition in a Canadian Parliament, and it has not been the first time. One of the issues of the election, in addition to the "inflation" which the administration declares it is attempting to fend off with the largest peacetime expenditures on record, will be that of responsible and responsive government. Canadians can be led, but not many of them are likely to be driven. On June 10 the electors, not a supine caucus, may render a verdict the administration is not expecting. Autocracy sits ill in this land.

Let Experience Guide

THE men who know best about the location of a firehall should be the fire chiefs. If as Alderman Mooney claims the present downtown site of the fire department headquarters has been condemned by these officials for years, it is not good business to put a new central firehall in the same place. The operational factor is crucial.

The drawbacks of the present site are obvious every day. The Fisgard area is highly congested and motor traffic is continuous and heavy. Parked cars abound in every block of that district, and the streets are none too wide. How the fire trucks get out with celerity from the present hall, and without collision with other vehicles, is a mystery. At best their progress is impeded at a time when speed is essential.

This is a matter where decision should not rest too much on the value of the present firehall site, either for resale or reoccupation, but on the facilities required. These hinge on the ease of egress if a fire department is to respond instantly to a call. The minutes saved thereby would offset any argument that a firehall placed several blocks from the strictly downtown area would be too far from the business section. It is worth remembering also that no one ever knows in what part of the city a fire might break out.

A new firehall is not in the offing for tomorrow, but in the near future. Only by the narrow margin of one vote has the city council favored the present site. The council would be well advised to think the matter over again, with particular attention to the views of the fire chief and his senior assistants. There must be few angles of the subject they have not thrashed out time and again, and they have the experience that counts.

Racketeers on the Prowl Again

DESPITE numerous warnings prominently displayed in the press every spring and fall, itinerant repair gangs battening on gullible householders—usually old people and widows—still seem able to find enough victims to make it worth their while coming here for a quick clean-up and a quicker departure for parts unknown. These men from out of town, suspected of operating as members of a highly organized racket, are astute enough and experienced enough either to stay within the law or to make a get-away before the law can catch up with them.

After a job has been done and paid for, there is not very much the authorities can do for unfortunate people who let themselves be taken in. Unless criminal misrepresentation can be established the police can rarely prosecute for there is a big difference between suspicion and proof that would stand up in court. The innocent householder is dealing with shrewd operators who know all the angles and either can't be prosecuted or can't be found.

The best advice that can be given, therefore—and it has been publicized so often that it should no longer be necessary—is to have no dealings with quick-talking strangers who call at the door offering to do repair work at a cheap rate. Nine times out of ten repairs are not necessary at all, and even if they are the bill presented by a fly-by-night gang will be far in excess of what a bona fide tradesman would charge. Anyhow, established contractors and repair men do not operate that way, which makes the "gyp artists" fairly easy to recognize if the householder uses his head.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

GENERALS are often indicted for preparing against the hazards of a new war in terms of the last one.

A bit unfair this for in fact it is not generals but governments who dictate the shape of a nation's defences.

And nowadays this is a job for a super-Solomon.

Where to place the military priority is something that puzzles the experts, who naturally don't all agree. It also accounts for the shifts and turns of defence arrangements.

This is made clear by the national defence report tabled last week in Parliament. Recent trends are somersaulted. The pendulum has swung from the RCAF to the RCN. The report leans so heavily indeed to naval measures as to suggest that reported Soviet submarine building has given Ottawa a fright.

Well it might, of course, if these submarines are now thought to be capable of launching atomic missiles from a point hundreds of miles off shore.

* * *

Canada's naval role in event of another global war is anti-submarine. Even in a long-range nuclear conflict the Atlantic must be kept free to Western shipping, and this is where the RCN comes in.

Renewed emphasis is therefore being placed on the St. Laurent class of escort destroyer — probably the best of its type among Western navies—backed by RCN and RCAF anti-submarine planes. Apparently every technical device that can be thought of will be developed to the utmost to offset Soviet submarine striking power.

One somewhat peculiar remark in the report concerns air defence. Dealing with retaliation in event of sudden and savage aerial attack on NATO countries, it says that such retaliation would not be effective for "a week or two." This is contrary to what we have been led to believe. Repeatedly we have been told that Western retaliation would be immediate and that its destructive potential was a matter of days, if not even hours.

Perhaps this contradiction simply illustrates the dilemma that faces all defence authorities. They are patently not preparing for the last war, but they are bedevilled by guessing at the course of any future one.

War is an art, and its anticipation prompts controversy. So also is sculpture, where similar disputation attends the issue.

Let us take Sir Jacob Epstein, who has caused more than one furore with his sculptured concepts. His latest work is no exception. It is an elongated aluminum figure, 16 feet high, portraying "Christ in Majesty," erected in the restored cathedral of Llandaff in Wales.

Already it has drawn such conflicting comments as "tremendous" and "a monstrosity."

Photographs of the "Majestas" invite some wonder as to its suitability for the inside of a cathedral. The figure is draped like a mummy in a box-like robe, and it surmounts a huge concrete arch spanning the nave, positioned in front of a concrete block housing the echo organ.

There can be no doubt of its powerful impact, although one imagines the effect will be startling on many a parishioner.

The Dean and Chapter of the cathedral are quoted as having "resisted every temptation towards a timid traditionalism," rather a masterly understatement. Epstein's fame as a sculptor is unquestioned, yet many who view this masterpiece may take diplomatic refuge in Churchill's verdict on a recent painting of himself: that it was "a striking example of modern art."

Even in a photograph the "Majestas" is all of that.

Threats Boomerang

Scandinavians Not Intimidated

By WILFRID FLEISHER, from Stockholm

SOVIET Premier Bulganin's angry notes to the Norwegian and Danish prime ministers threatening atomic warfare if they remained in NATO have boomeranged.

At the same time the Russian propaganda offensive against Scandinavia as a whole is forcing Sweden to reappraise her neutral position, since it becomes more apparent than ever that Sweden would have very little chance, if any, to remain on the sidelines in the event of a new war.

* * *

The Russian campaign against the northern countries started in early March with an attack on Denmark in the Soviet organ Izvestia in which the Danes were accused of turning their country into a "foreign military base" aimed against the Soviet Union. There followed Russian charges of an alleged Swedish spy plot in Russia in which a dozen Estonian agents were said to have been involved.

The Danes were not disturbed by the Izvestia article and the Swedes preferred to interpret the Soviet charges as an attempt to square accounts since Sweden had uncovered five major Russian spy plots in Sweden with in the past four years.

* * *

Premier Bulganin's note to Norway came therefore as something of a shock to all the Scandinavian countries, intensified by the delivery a few days later of a similar and even stiffer note to Denmark. The Russians are now serving notice that, in the event of war, the Scandinavian countries can expect to be targets of destructive nuclear attacks.

Many Swedes believe there was a strong hint for them in the note to Norway when Bulganin declared that the destructive power of modern weapons "is so great that the blow which would be directed toward destroying the aggressors' bases would inevitably hit much greater areas, which would mean a catastrophe even for countries with a larger territory than Norway." Swedes believe that Bulganin meant this to refer to Sweden.

But one way or another the Swedes realize that if Norway should be the target of a hydrogen bomb, or several of them as Bulganin threatened, Sweden would be a victim at the same time.

* * *

This awareness has come at a time when atomic armament is the subject of a heated controversy here. The Swedish government has been reluctant to make any commitment but military circles here have been unanimous in urging the government to acquire tactical atomic weapons from abroad.

General Helge Jung, former commander-in-chief of the Swedish forces, in a newly-published book entitled, "East, West and Us," which has become an overnight best-seller, urges Sweden to overlook no opportunity to purchase atomic weapons. He has been joined by Vice-Admiral Stig Ericson, commander of the Swedish navy, and by Jarl Hjalmarsson, conservative party leader, who wants the government to buy them from the United States.

* * *

The big problem which both politicians and military leaders have avoided mentioning but which is in the back of everyone's mind here, is how Sweden can obtain these atomic weapons from the United States without entering into the Atlantic Pact. Officials in the know declare privately that the only alternative to joining NATO is for Sweden to produce the atomic weapons herself, and that would mean a delay of several years—at least until 1960, according to the most optimistic forecasts.

Sweden's dilemma is increased by the fact that she is conscious that her Scandinavian neighbors Norway and Denmark—both members of the Atlantic Pact, are in a position to receive tactical equipment from the United States, such as apparatus for launching guided missiles, and would quickly receive the atomic rockets from American stock-piles in Europe if an emergency should develop. The Swedes do not like the prospect of being out-distanced in armament by their neighbors.

* * *

Norwegian and Danish reaction to the Russian threats is clear. They consider the Russians made a psychological blunder if they thought they could frighten them out of their Western alliance. The Norwegians and Danes both feel, on the contrary, that in the face of such threats they need allies more than ever and that the Atlantic Pact is all the more important to them.

How To Wreck a Women's Club

(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal)

A WOMAN'S club in Westport, Massachusetts, is on the verge of being wrecked because of a new resolution.

It appears there are a junior section and a senior section, but until recently there was no hard and fast rule as to when a member should pass from junior to senior membership. So the committee, which must have had a majority of ladies on it who could no longer hide the fact that they were getting up in years, passed a resolution fixing the change-over year at 35.

That was a foolhardy thing to do. The woman is not born yet who will admit to her best friend that she has reached her 35th birthday, so long as she retains her youthful looks, with or without the aid of cosmetics.

Only when she has belonged to an organization since way back and is known to have a son or daughter who is just through high school will she reluctantly give up the pose that she is still a junior.

The Westport club does a lot of good work, and if it breaks up because the juniors who are really seniors will not admit it, the community will suffer a loss. Perhaps the solution of the matter would be to just have members—neither junior nor senior—then nobody would have to admit anything.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ONE of our women friends says she has the worst luck. She is always breaking the handles off teacups, upsetting jugs in the fridge, letting food burn in the oven.

She is the kind of woman who, if you let her in your rowboat in summer, will step on your fishing rods for sure. If the bus goes by her house every six minutes, she will come out the front door just as it passes; and the bus stop only a hundred yards away.

And it raining.

If she buys tickets for the ballet or theatre for a Tuesday night, she will think it is for Wednesday, and not find out until she reaches the theatre door.

Last night, when she and her husband arrived at our house, she had lost her purse. It wasn't in their car. It wasn't at the restaurant where they had eaten supper. The husband phoned there, and tried to get a couple of shops they had visited earlier.

"I have the worst luck!" she reiterated, when her husband came wearily from the telephone.

"You're just careless," said he.

"I am not!" she protested hotly. "Maybe it's my eyesight!"

"Or," I suggested mildly, thinking of my poor fishing rods and all those cups with their handles off and those dishes upset in the fridge, "maybe it is just poor co-ordination. Reflexes, or something."

She looked at me gratefully.

"Careless," repeated her husband firmly. "You just don't pay attention to what you're doing. What was in your purse?"

Well, there wasn't much. You know, the usual rubbish. But women are very upset upon losing their purses. She was moody all evening.

When her husband and I went to the kitchen to put the kettle on and slice some Spanish onions for sandwiches, he shut the door and faced me.

"Not unlucky," he said. "Not careless. Not eyesight. Not reflexes. Just plain lazy!"

There may be something in it. He ought to know.

Conquering Cancer

This month Canadians are being asked to make their annual contribution to help defeat a disease which has killed and crippled thousands of our people. The disease is cancer, the No. 2 killer in the country.

Since 1947, cancer has claimed the lives of 190,000 Canadians, but each year, thanks to the help given by the average citizen, the death toll is being lowered. We think that everyone should support the present campaign for $2,200,000 because only by public support will cancer eventually be conquered.

In British Columbia the objective of the current campaign is $250,000. We think this amount will be collected without much trouble. But, we can't sit back and let someone else do our job. It's up to every one of us to do our part to beat cancer.

Opportunity for Duncan

The air freight agent of Trans-Canada Airlines dropped a few helpful hints here about horticultural possibilities on southern Vancouver Island. He wondered why more roses, cut flowers and holly were not being grown here for the eastern trade, in view of the overnight air service, at rates which compare very favourably with rail charges.

Once Duncan had a sweet pea festival, as picturesque and charming an event as could be imagined. The day seems at hand for reassessing opportunities in horticulture and methods currently in force by growers elsewhere, if we are to follow the TCA agent's advice.

Bridge or Monstrosity?

Scores of motorists have declared that the overhead bridge on the Island Highway at Nanoose is no longer adequate to meet present-day traffic requirements, and those complaints will probably continue until it is replaced.

This bridge is definitely unsuitable for two-way traffic, and as a result, those driving cars hold their breath and hope for the best when passing cars or trucks on the structure.

With work underway to bring the Island Highway from Wellington through Lantzville and Nanoose Bay up to an excellent standard, this overhead monstrosity no longer fits into the picture. It should be replaced as soon as possible.

—PARKSVILLE PROGRESS

Other People's Garbage

If North Saanich or Central Saanich, or both of them, can find other methods of refuse disposal, the Village of Sidney will wish them well. But if they desire to continue to use the facilities provided by Sidney ratepayers, they should be prepared to pay their share. That seems no more than fair.

The Review hopes that the day will never come when the village is forced to erect some form of customs barrier on roadsides leading into Sidney, with an inspection staff checking each car entering the municipality to ascertain that it does not carry some potato peelings or tin cans intended for disposal at the garbage dump. Prompt payment of costs by every part of the territory served would prevent such a program being launched.

Architects of Community

It is good to look back from time to time, because there is much in Ladysmith's past which the city can be proud of, but people who are continually looking back make little forward progress. There is also much in Ladysmith and district which still remains to be done. There are natural amenities to be developed. There are notable gaps in the social and recreation programs and facilities.

The group who worked so hard to make the new hospital possible have pointed the way and the support they received from the public at large has proved conclusively that the people of Ladysmith are the architects of their own community and there is little that they cannot have if they want it enough.

Simpson, answering in court for his behavior, said he had heard Butts ringing a bell and crying out that there would be a "fight between himself and Capt. Simpson, the celebrated banjo player, at 7½ o'clock on Saturday night."

Simpson therefore attacked him. He was fined 40 shillings.

Letters to the Editor

Overrun by Cats

City council is tired of hearing about cats, but had they handled the situation properly in the first place there would have been no further need of all the bickering that has been and is going on.

There were cat traps placed because people in this area had no other choice. We are over-run with cats now the weather is warming and the Cats' Protection League has turned a deaf ear to our request. I say again, they are more interested in boarding cats than in the welfare and peace of mind of the neighbors involved.

We resent very much the implication that we trapped for spite and only wanted to catch cats belonging to the lady who insists on having so many. Because of her cats we have dozens of strays on our property all day.

All we ask is a little freedom from cats everywhere we look, and the chance to plant seeds without having them all dug out; and if the only way we can have it is with traps, that is what we'll have to do. It is a pity people who have one pet may find it in the pound because of the selfish attitude of one person prompted on by the CPL.

Shocking Roads

The Social Credit government and more particularly the department of highways in its infinite wisdom has seen fit to heap further miseries on the heads of the hapless inhabitants of Shawnigan Lake.

Everyone admits there are certain advantages to living in the country, but not the least of these is the ability to drive to town frequently in comfort. For four long years some part of the road to Victoria has been under construction.

First it was the Goldstream stretch. For months we wallowed through mud. The next winter it was the section from Colwood to town. The third winter the Malahat was begun. "Oh well," we were told encouragingly, "it is worth putting up with; you will have such a beautiful road when it is finished!" Alas, poor Yorick! Another winter has gone by with every prospect of many more to come, while a handful of men sit desultorily boring holes into rock. We begin to wonder if it will be finished in our lifetime.

However, not content with 14 miles on the Malahat "under construction" (to us an euphemistic term), our benignant department of highways has started simultaneously to "construct" both the Shawnigan cut-off and the Cobble Hill Road. Naturally, it did not occur to them to do this work before the Malahat was begun, or after (if ever) it was finished. Such forethought would be too much to hope for. Those sections of road not torn up, which include the Mill Bay Road, are in such a state of disrepair and unmended pot-holes as to break the heart of any self-respecting car owner.

It is therefore impossible to drive from up-Island into the capital city of this province by any alternative route without the utmost discomfort and inconvenience. I challenge the officials in the department of highways to drive once a week over the Malahat in their own private cars—not government vehicles—and see how they would feel about it.

Ratepayers' Association

I would like to answer a letter by Mildred Vining which appeared in the April 10 Colonist. I am very glad to see that another association has started here in Victoria to assist the ratepayers of this city from being taxed out of existence.

The association which I am secretary of, The Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, Victoria Branch, has been in operation for years, and we fought the notorious sink question, and are still keeping a close watch so as to have it rescinded.

We are a branch of a very large association with branches in all municipalities on the Island as well as being affiliated with the large ratepayers' association on the Mainland of B.C.

(Mrs.) V. WICKRAN,
Secretary,
Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association,
1043 Sutlej Street, Victoria, B.C.

What About Small Cars?

I see the ferry companies state that they have to charge $6 on a car crossing to Port Angeles due to "longer modern cars cutting down carrying capacity by up to 20 per cent."

What about the many thousands of smaller cars which will be charged the $6?

Let's compare, say, a small Nash over-all length of 149 inches with a Lincoln at 216 inches, which is 45 per cent more length for the same price.

Using the ferry companies' argument, they should charge considerably less for the smaller cars. Space using and weight should always be considered in setting freight rates, the companies must agree.

On behalf of thousands who cannot afford to pay $6 (for an 18-mile crossing) and who buy small cars for the same reason, something should be done about it.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE.

Support the Cougars

Through the medium of your paper I would like to express on behalf of the directors of the Victoria Hockey Club their appreciation to the members of your staff who gave the Cougars and the hockey club such excellent support druing the past season.

And particularly I would like to express the club's appreciation of the support of the many ardent fans.

Wide Hats, Slim Sheaths Women's Mood This Spring

All Stores Report Good Easter Sales

By DAVID FRANCIS

Sweet Temptation

Tempted by huge chocolate Easter egg is Marilyn Sommers, 2400 Cedar Hill Crossroad. Stores report sales of candy and other goods booming this year. —(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

This is the season when women have an urge to acquire new hats.

And according to managers of several large Victoria stores, women "in droves" are satisfying the urge.

"There is more interest in hats this year than last," said William Cedar, manager of the dresses and millinery department of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The spring weather and late Easter has put women "into the mood."

Most popular hats are wider-brimmed this year, often of light weight straw, with floral or fruit trim and in white or beige.

"There is such a variety this year, women are often at a loss as to what they want," he said.

Customers are showing interest in higher-priced goods this year and are more conscious of style.

Though hats may be getting bigger, clothes are becoming slimmer, with sheath skirts, dressmaker style suits, and slim-style wrap-around coats popular, he reported.

All stores reported Easter sales at a high level.

"We certainly have no complaints," reported the manager of one large store. "This Easter will be considerably better than last year."

Courtney Haddock, manager of Woodward Stores (Victoria) Ltd., reported a rush on boats, power lawnmowers and camping equipment.

"Heavens! People are going boat crazy," he said. "With a trend toward a 28-hour week, there will be no place to put the boats."

One family, he reported, bought a power lawnmower for an 81-year-old grandfather.

The old man wanted the machine and gets "quite a kick" out of operating it, he reported.

Often in the case of the more expensive gifts, the children or wife will make a down-payment and "Dad pays the rest," he said.

Camping equipment is becoming very popular with the opening of the parks in the province, Mr. Haddock continued.

"Our candy sales aren't as good because of the Optimist Club selling baskets of candy door-to-door," he said.

Killer Suspect Remanded

Leland Miller is charged in the stabbing death near Courtenay April 2 of Mrs. Dorothy Frances Duyvejonk.

Miller, who is being held at Oakalla, appeared in Burnaby for remand so that he would not have to be sent to Courtenay until his preliminary hearing.

Date of the preliminary will be set April 19.

Red Cross Donations $150 Short of Goal

LADYSMITH—Red Cross campaign chairman Mrs. D. B. Quayle reported last week that the 1957 drive collected $1,149. Quota is $1,300, up $100 over 1956.

Business Blooming

Rush for Flowers

Business is booming for local florists.

Springtime and the advent of Easter are drawing flocks of people to Victoria flower shops, buying flowers or ordering them for Easter weekend, a survey showed yesterday.

Daffodil-picking still was going on heavily on Saanich farms, with many of the golden yellow flowers being sold locally but the majority of the $150,000 crop being air-shipped to the Prairies and eastern centres.

Flowers of every other description, as well as daffodils, are enjoying big sales here, several florists said.

Mentally Ill Find Hope in Drugs

(Brilliant research is producing astonishing drugs and unlocking the mysteries of the brain in the drive to find a cure for mental illness. This first of five articles presents an over-all picture of mental illness and the research being done.)

An exciting revolution to win health for human minds is brewing in laboratories and hospitals.

Astonishing drugs are quieting many excited minds, helping send numerous mental patients home again after years of mind-locked imprisonment.

Even without such drugs, a few hospitals are mending the sick minds of up to 85 per cent of their patients—when these hospitals have enough psychiatrists, other staff and funds.

Last year for the first time in history, mental hospitals discharged more patients than they admitted, though admissions set a record.

In research, other astounding drugs are producing signs of psychoses in normal human volunteers. So does an extract from the blood of schizophrenics. Blood tests are finding fascinating chemical differences between normal and mentally ill persons.

Evidence is mounting that severe mental sickness is not something we think ourselves into, so much as caused by some chemical or physical fault which could be controlled.

Brilliant research is charting electrical and chemical mysteries of the brain, a wondrous complex of 10 billion living nerve cells giving us thoughts, feelings, actions.

The revolution of quickening change and research comes just in time. For mental illness is our costliest disease, long and shockingly neglected.

For, severe mental illness aside, "there isn't a person who doesn't frequently experience a mental or emotional disturbance severe enough to disrupt his functioning as a well-adjusted, happy and efficiently performing individual," declares Dr. William Menninger, Topeka, Kan., psychiatrist.

Ailing emotions subject us to vague gnawing anxiety or depressions, ill-hidden feelings of suspicion, fear, resentment and hate. Or stomach ulcers. Or to headaches, or chest or other pains, all real enough as pains, but actually psychosomatic.

Unhappy minds help sabotage marriage, spur crimes; beckon problem drinkers down the destructive alley of alcoholism; help fan rebellious fires of juvenile delinquency.

The [illegible] toll can be blamed on the tensions of the decade. Times were pretty rough back in cave-man days and other times, they remind, worrying where your next meal was coming from, what wild animal or disease would seize you, whether Indians might lift your scalp.

These authorities think about as many of us, in proportion to population, suffer now from various mental ailments as people did hundreds of years ago.

Quite contrary to general opinion, most psychotics are not screaming, dangerous maniacs. In smaller towns of 30 to 50 years ago, many of them could walk the streets, "queer" but harmless, and a neighbor, recognizing old Mr. Jones, would bring him home.

The really violent and unwanted people were dispatched to "lunatic asylums" or jails, kept in shackles and shocking neglect.

Psychiatry began doing something, but always there were too few real mental hospitals, too little attention, too few doctors.

The exact causes of mental illnesses are not known yet. But research promises fantastic changes soon within reach.

TUESDAY: Drugs against mental illness.

Guard at Birdcage

Transportation Heavily Booked

Airline transportation to and from the mainland for the busiest days of the Easter holiday weekend, Thursday and Friday and Sunday evening and Monday, are very heavily booked, with only a few seats available, TCA officials said yesterday.

Ferry transportation is also heavily booked.

Cadets Polish Up For Big Inspection

Sea cadets at their Rainbow establishment here are going through a stiff preparation period for their annual inspection Sunday, May 19, by Capt. P. E. Haddon, chief of staff of the Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, of the RCN.

The public inspection ceremony at Rainbow will begin at 2.30 p.m.

Special working-up classes are being carried out for the inspection—which will include band displays and samples of training received in seamanship, communications, boat drill and pilotage.

There are 123 cadets in the senior corps—RCSCC—and 75 junior cadets in the Navy League Cadet Corps, as well as 16 girls from 14 to 18 who are Wrenettes.

Also in store for the cadets are seven weeks of trades training courses in establishments across Canada this summer.

At HMCS Stadacona, near Halifax, cadets will be trained in gunnery, torpedo anti-submarine work and engineering mechanics. HMCS Naden will have courses in leadership, ordanance and quartermaster third class subjects.

Communications, physical recreational training and quartermaster third class instruction will be given at HMCS Cornwallis, near Halifax. Naval aviation will be taught at HMCS Shearwater, just outside Halifax, and leadership and band work at HMCS Acadia, near Sidney, N.S.

In addition, 35 cadets from RCSCC Rainbow will attend summer camp at HMCS Quadra, at Comox, from Aug. 12 to 23.

Eligibility to attend this camp consists of a year's service in the corps, 65 per cent attendance and a rank of able seaman or above.

Some 12 workers employed by Chemical Linings of Canada Ltd. at lining kilns in the MacMillan and Bloedel pulp mill under construction at Port Alberni have been certified by the International Building and General Laborers' Union, Local 1093, Business Agent Earl Allen announced yesterday.

'Adjudication Pitiful'

By BERT BINNY

The 1957 Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival closed last night with the honor performance and the announcement and presentation of awards.

Items on the honor program which will represent Victoria and the Southern Island at the [illegible] 1 to 4, were Victoria Theatre Guild's "Fumed Oak," the Gremlins' "The Storm" and St. Luke's Players' "A Battle of Wits."

Adjudicator Mrs. Lily Harper found not setting worthy of the award for the most imaginative setting but the remaining laurels were distributed as follows:

Best actress: Carol MacCormac for her Alice in "The Storm." Best actor: Clifford Clark for his Joe Rodgers in "The Cat." Best director: Nell North for her "The Fish." Best written original play: "My Love Is Dead," by Rona Murray. Best play: "A Battle of Wits," presented by St. Luke's Players.

Unfortunately, this festival cannot be written down as any great success. Too many things went wrong. Some of these would not be immediately apparent to audiences. But if permitted to persist, the effect can't help but result in smaller and smaller attendance.

Despite the sincere, capable and thorough work of stage manager Roy Goldfinch who, for sheer competence deserves an Oscar himself, there were backstage disturbances during performances and sometimes utter confusion as to rehearsals.

There were rumors of discrimination at the door in the matter of applying the regulation covering late arrival and consequent non-admittance. The regulation should appear boldly on the ticket and in advertisements.

The program, for which the exorbitant sum of 25 cents was charged, was a catalogue of errors and omissions.

Changes in the original copy were made without reference to those responsible. Corrections were announced from the platform as "changes in the program," craftily shifting the blame for error onto those who were blameless in most cases.

The adjudication was unsatisfactory almost to the point of being pitiful. Adjudicators are appointed and paid to make decisions—however difficult—and not to bypass them.

Such vacillation is apparent when double the required number of plays for the honor performance are selected or scripts are found to be of equal merit. It destroys confidence in other verdicts.

Moreover, adjudicators' decisions should be reached on the basis of what they see and hear on the stage, without seeking personal information backstage and, particularly, without seeking advice from the committee except, possibly, as to regulations.

And consulting any of the competing players—as seems to have been done at this Festival—must constitute about the last word in unethical conduct.

No doubt these errors were committed with the best of motives—a consuming desire to avoid giving offence and hurting the theatre movement. This also accounts for adjudications which were described variously last week as "milk-and-honey" or "wishy-washy."

Most players enter the Festival almost solely to obtain such criticism and they are justified in turning their backs on the whole thing if they don't get it.

True, some individuals may be temporarily hurt by adverse criticism but no adjudicator can do lasting harm to the theatre which has survived every attack and obstacle for at least 2,500 years.

"GETTING IT AT WOODWARD'S IS YOUR BEST GUARANTEE"

The Entertainment Parade — By Bruce Lowther

'Chocolate Soldier' Solid Box-Office

Victorians can be sold on a "live" local event when the selling is done right.

Gilbert and Sullivan Society, which organized last fall for its "Chocolate Soldier" in the Royal Theatre April 29 through May 1, already has sold more than half of the 4,400 tickets.

This is amazing because Victoria has become infamous in recent years for its apathy to a "live" local show and only a quarter of the tickets for a G. and S. show were sold at this stage a year ago.

Credit must go to society members, who have sold most of their 3,000 tickets, and to the star-studded cast of Margaret Hall, Del and Mickey Rogers, Dianne Hogarth, Jim Mead-Robins, Eleanor Duff and Walter Cownden.

The society has put on 16 shows and produced the last five on its own, at a cost of about $4,000 each. That's a major gamble for Victoria, and it will be a major miracle if the society can fill the Royal for three consecutive nights, as every local outfit knows.

DEL ROGERS

Tickets also are at Woodward's, Hudson's Bay, Standard Furniture, Kent's, Western Music, Tyrell's of Oak Bay, Belmont Cleaners and Fairfield Pharmacy.

* * *

Chairman Steed and the Victoria Choral Society, even before ending their 1956-57 program with Bach's "St. John Passion" Wednesday, are thinking about next season, and have a repeat of Handel's "Messiah" and a performance of Brahms' "Requiem" under consideration.

Presentation of the "St. John Passion" in Christ Church Cathedral this week will be the major work of this season and will mean the society has presented almost all of the masterpieces of religious and secular choral music.

MICKEY ROGERS

Mr. Steed will conduct the 75-voice choir, 20-piece chamber orchestra, singers Audrey Saville, Eleanor Duff, Derek McDermot, Harry Johns, John Bray and Edward Oldfield and musical soloists Richard Proudman and Malcolm Hamilton.

* * *

Mme. Winifred Lugrin Fahey's interesting operetta "Spirit of the Nile" will be presented again by Esquimalt Lions Club, in Oak Bay Junior High School May 3, with the same cast, led by Stan Martin, Leona Henley, Bill Fahey and Hazel Stevens.

Fair-sized crowds saw the event when it was done twice two weeks ago, and a considerable number of Victorians have asked for a repeat performance.

The Ageless Stars — By Joe Hyams

She's a Square in Curveland

Hollywood is usually thought of as the home of the feminine curve. Amply derriered, lushly bosomed young women dominate the film world. Theirs, with one exception, is the kingdom and the power and the glory. The exception is Katharine Hepburn, a lanky Yankee with more angles than a Broadway grifter. At 47 and carrying less weight than an underfed 16-year-old, the incredible Kate has an angular face, an angular body and an angular personality. Her legs, although angular, are long, slim and exquisite. Her mind is thoroughly angular, especially when it comes to money, for which she has a sturdy New England passion.

American women have been wearing, with varying degrees of success, slacks and men's shirts for several years now. Kate pioneered the style in the dear dark days of 1932. And on her they look good—real good.

Like any proper product of an Eastern women's college, she says "yup" for yes and "rally" for really.

The daughter of a successful Hartford, Conn., surgeon and a crusading suffragette—mother, Kate was the beneficiary of an upper middle class but highly unorthodox childhood. Tutored at home, she was a bit of a character at Bryn Mawr, but hung on long enough to graduate. Then she began a long assault on the Broadway theatre, which terminated with success in "The Warrior's Husband." Then came Hollywood.

Labeled "poison at the box office" in 1937, she scored a tremendous Broadway hit in the late Philip Barry's "The Philadelphia Story." This brought her back to picture-making and the money has rolled in ever since.

The play was about the somewhat dour inhabitants of Philadelphia's social Main Line, a section of the country about which Kate had pronounced views. In 1928 she had married a Philadelphian, Ludlow Ogden Smith.

KATHARINE HEPBURN

Naturally, she couldn't conceive of herself as plain Mrs. Smith, so she had her groom change his name Ogden Ludlow. Despite this gallant sacrifice, she found that the Main Line was not for her. The two were amicably divorced in 1934.

That was Miss Hepburn's first and last fling at marriage. Her romantic attachments since then have been few. Her father handles all her money and gives her an allowance. Thanks to this arrangement, she is now several times a millionaire. Her salary per film is a straight $150,000.

Miss Hepburn says of herself: "If you start off on a remarkable theatrical career at 20 it's no thanks to training. I was fortunate to be born with a set of characteristics that were in public vogue at the time."

When we saw Miss Hepburn recently between scenes at Twentieth Century Fox where she is co-starring with Spencer Tracy in "Desk Set," she was sitting slouched in a camp chair, feet on a packing case.

"I don't know why newspaper people want to talk to me," she said. "I'm 2,000 years old and everything is known about me and that's the trouble."

Miss Hepburn has been in the motion-picture business for 25 years, and the stories about her in the thousands. She once rocked RKO studios for $10,000 for an hour's overtime to teach the studio to observe the deadline in its contracts.

She's a passionate amateur at every sport and spends hours at tennis and swimming. She can pilot a plane and race a car, but she's fondest of her least strenuous hobby—painting.

When working in a film Miss Hepburn wanders around the set. She visits the writers and sits on the floor contributing dialogue; she discusses lighting with the electricians; works on sets with the prop men and assists the designers with wardrobes.

"She has as much energy as a major studio," one of her directors said. As an afterthought he added, "She's nearly a whole studio now."

Off the Record — By Jim Taylor

Disk Jockeys Just Can't Keep Up

We will now take a moment to pity the poor disc jockey.

Sure, he gets to listen to all the music he wants, and gets first crack at the new releases. But there are a couple of rubs. First, he gets snowed under with commercials, the plague of the hit parade programs. Secondly, he gets buried under a weekly avalanche of new releases.

The output of pop tunes of all categories has reached the point where the big companies are flooding the market with a rash of discs in the hope that one or two will reach hit status.

Then again, there are so many new artists being signed, and every signing means at least two or three records.

During the past few months, the staggering total of 150 discs per week, or 300 tunes, have been published. With 1,200 songs out every month, is it any wonder that the average d.j might get a little confused?

So, if you have a favorite new tune and your top d.j doesn't play it, don't blame him too much. He probably has[illegible]

Among the LP's: Tony Bennett, on record rising toward the top with his "Sold to the Man With the Broken Heart" has issued an LP of standards, and does all of them well. Included are "These Foolish Things" and "Love Walked In" to name a couple of the best . . . Another Columbia LP is "Fraternity Rush" by Boyd Raeburn, the band with the college sound. This one is great for the old-fashioned [illegible] who still like to dance without throwing themselves out of joint . . . For Broadway musical fans, Percy Faith does music from "Li'l Abner" in his latest LP.

The Very Latest: They won't be out for a couple of weeks, but there are a couple of shingles worth waiting for.

Buddy Knox's latest is "Rock Your Baby to Sleep" and it moves as well as "Party Doll." The other big new one is a two-sided threat for the [illegible]. The first side is a carbon copy of his "Everlovin' Fingers" called "I Trusted You." It's backed with a faster one called "Warm Up to Me, Baby" . . .

Nellie Lutcher is back with something she wrote herself called "Hurry On Down" . . . Anthony Perkins is the latest movie star to climb on the recording bandwagon. If "Melody for Lovers is any indication, I hope he falls off—

Bill Doggett has issued a new arrangement of "Chloe" that could catch on . . . Also look out for "My Big Brother's Friend" by Cecilia Bratten.

Hottest in Hollywood

$14,500,000 Bet on Niven

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—A major Hollywood studio is betting that one actor's presence in a movie will insure an audience of a quarter of a billion people and a gross of $14,500,000.

That's the confidence this company is vesting in a tall, lean combination beachcomber and bon vivant named David Niven, who rides success with the ease of a youngster enjoying his tenth straight trip on a roller coaster.

Since the arrival of "Around the World in 80 Days," the versatile Niven is the hottest actor in town—hotter even than Yul Brynner.

At the moment this devil-may-care Scot is the world's highest-paid butler in the title role of "My Man Godfrey," a comedy being modernized by U-I from the 1936 hit.

Before this assignment, Niven had, in addition to the Mike Todd spectacle, starred in the movie of the hit play, "The Little Hut," with Ava Gardner, and 20th Century-Fox's "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!"

By summer he will be in Europe to help film Francoise Sagan's best-seller novel, "Bonjour Tristesse."

For many years he has been a filmland "insurance man" in London and Hollywood, that extra marquee value that helps guarantee success.

Most of his screen capers pale when matched against the unpredictable exploits of Niven's waking hours since they first began back in Kirriemuir, Scotland — service with the Highland Light Infantry in Malta, lumberjacking in Canada until a series of articles on fox-hunting got him enough money to invade New York, delivering shirts for a Chinese laundry in a chauffeur - driven limousine borrowed from a friend, instructing in gunnery for Cuban revolutionists and deck-handing on a Japanese freighter.

Motion pictures alone do not account entirely for the great year Niven is currently enjoying. Partnered with Dick Powell and Charles Boyer, he is also reaping the benefits of a highly successful television venture, Four Star Productions.

His hobby, writing, has this year borne fruit in the shape of a published novel, "'Round the Rugged Rocks".

He rarely takes himself seriously. "An actor, like anybody else, has his good times and bad," he insists. "I'm sailing along right now but it's just as possible that one of these days I'll be back swimming in the Pacific Ocean, looking for a place to land."

Good-Bye, Mr. Peepers

By WAMBLY BALD

It was a Horatio Alger story come true when frail, 28-year-old Wally Cox became a national phenomenon in television.

From a $40-a-week silversmith to a $1,500-a-performance TV star in a few easy moves—that was his story.

But television does something to the old-fashioned Horatio Alger theme. It destroys the little gods it creates.

In 1952, Wally Cox streaked across the television horizon as the beloved little "Mr. Peepers," a meek, Milquetoasty character. He was immediately declared one of the TV highlights of the season.

In the show's first season, an estimated 18,000,000 Americans welcomed the endearing school teacher into their parlors every Sunday night.

Everybody else seemed to love him, too.

His show's rating climbed steadily for three years. In April, 1953, at the end of the first season, it won the coveted Peabody Award, with the board describing the star as "a genuinely funny man."

How did it all happen?

Well, as the old saying goes, one thing led to another. Wally Cox was a shy, lonely Detroit kid who came to New York in 1942. He studied industrial arts at New York University and subsequently became a silversmith.

He was living in a cold-water flat, turning out his trinkets and selling them to friends, when he ran into Marlon Brando, who had been an old school chum of his. Brando began taking him around to parties, and at the movie star's insistence Wally overcame his natural shyness sufficiently to give recitations. Then he would pull out his case of trinkets and sell a few.

Next Wally was persuaded to try out his monologues at a little Greenwich Village night club. A few more night clubs, a brief appearance in a Broadway show, TV guest appearances—and then Wally was invited to guest on the Garry Moore show, where he gave his recitations on such subjects as the ants, the aphids and the bees, and what it's like to be a patient bird-watcher.

The public was delighted. Mail poured in. Wally Cox was on his way.

But happy dreams don't last forever. The public gets bored, competition becomes too tough, lots of things can happen. After three seasons Wally's ratings fell like a barometer before a sudden storm. He, too, was expendable. "Mr. Peepers" went off the air in June, 1955.

And the disinherited Wally Cox started making spot appearances on television before being tried with a new program, "The Adventures of Hirm Holliday," in the fall of 1956. But the old magic was gone.

"When the public gets tired of a show there isn't very much you can do about it. I guess the word 'tired' just about tells the story."

I Know What I Like

All Artists Crazy? Van Gogh Started It

By TONY EMERY

It is remarkable to what an extent the strange figure of Vincent Van Gogh has captured the imagination of the general public. If the indefatigable Dr. Gallup were to ask every adult in the English-speaking world to name three artists of the last 100 years I am sure that of those who could name an artist at all, nine out of 10 would mention Van Gogh's name first.

He, more than anyone, is responsible for the notion that all modern artists are crazy. I have seen the look that settles on the faces of strangers introduced to a contemporary artist for the first time. Warily polite at first, they gradually relax into a state of gratified relief, and their invariable comment when the door has closed behind Herbert Siebner or Jan Zach, John Korner or Gordon Smith, is: "I don't get it. How could a nice quiet guy like that paint things like those?" And here they point a derisive finger at the pictures on my walls.

Vincent started all this. If only he had stayed in Holland minding his old boots and potato-gatherers he would be about as well known as Max Liebermann today. But no, he had to go south and contract a violent inflammation of the palette.

Jacques Prevert, in his poem "Complainte de Vincent" speaks punningly of "Tatroce lumiere de midi," that harsh noonday sunlight of Provence that blares stridently out of the canvases Vincent painted at Arles. It is his trademark. So unmistakable is his handiwork that the average citizen can recognize it at once, which accounts for much of his popularity.

Before I had seen many original Van Goghs I was acquainted with a vast body of his work through the reproductions which clog the print-shops of Europe. So hackneyed now are these ubiquitous cornfields and orchards, barrooms and billiard tables, cypresses and sunflowers, beached boats and vineyards that my feelings for Van Gogh closely resembled J. B. Priestley's unreasonable attitude toward Saskatchewan. ("It is the only place I have ever been tired of without going there.")

Then in 1948 came the Van Gogh show at the Tate, and I was knocked base over apex by the singing color, the immense vigor of the brush-work and the total effect of burning vitality and blazing sincerity.

Emerging on to the Thames Embankment the dirty wharves and muddy river applied a visual poultice to my seared eyeballs, but even now I have only to close my eyes to see—almost hear — those great canvases, each yelling its simple slogan.

These paintings tell us much about Vincent, and we can learn the rest from his letters to his brother. In these he pours out his ambitions and frustrations along with day-to-day bulletins of his struggles with his work. They ex, ress a ferocious intensity of purpose, a lunatic unity of mind.

What made Paul Gauguin throw up a successful business career, abandon wife and family and finally exchange the delights of European civilization for a primitive life in the South Seas? Only the cynical will murmur, "A longing for peace and quiet."

It wasn't just that he felt that

"La, tout n'est qu'ordre et beaute

though doubtless that had something to do with it. It was the daemon, the insatiable urge to paint that never lets the painter rest for long.

Gauguin and Van Gogh: twin legends; double-header fairytale for the culture-hungry middle classes. What would they make of their fame if they could return today? Gauguin would weep to find his Cythera become an "Eldorado banal de tous les vieux garcons," to quote Baudelaire once more.

Vincent would grin wolfishly to hear his name pronounced as if to rhyme with the mango that belongs with the hibiscus and low cleavage of Paul's Tahitian paradise.

"How should it be pronounced? Like the hawking of the douaniers at dawn, clearing their morning throats on the frontier platform at Vallorbe, as they clump stiffleged in their leg-of-mutton breeches to board the wagons-lits.

Comedy Revival Highlight

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Where else but on television can one be entertained and enlightened in one week by "Three Men on a Horse," Picasso paintings and special Easter shows?

Playhouse 90's treatment of the happy old horse-rocking comedy could be the big show of the week. The cast is big enough, with Jack Carson, Johnny Carson, Carol Channing, Mona Freeman, Edward Everett Horton, Arnold Stang, Frank McHugh, Allen Jenkins and Jane Darwell.

While there's variety, there isn't much quantity, as the day-to-day list of highlights shows.

Sunday—Three Palm Sunday shows (see TV Talk today); "Cinderella (channel 2, 8 p.m.). Tuesday — A play about the newspaper La Prensa's fight with Juan Peron (channel 4, 9.30 p.m.). Wednesday — CBC shows Picasso paintings (channels 2 and 6, 10 p.m.).

Thursday—"Three Men on a Horse" (channel 11, 9.30 p.m.).

Friday—No commercials on the two Canadian stations and a number of special Easter shows; elsewhere, Dinah Shore show with Dean Martin (channel, 4, 9 p.m.).

* * *

An Oscar-winning movie of 1946 that set the trend for the so-called "realistic" movies of the last few years will make its local TV debut Saturday. "Gentleman's Agreement," starring Gregory Peck as a man who poses as a Jew, is listed for 10.05 p.m. on channel 11.

The few other good movies are "Seventh Veil" on channel 2 tonight, "Pickwick Papers" on channel 5 Tuesday afternoon, "A Day at the Races" with the Marx Brothers, on channel 5 Wednesday night, and "Thief of Baghdad" and "Scott of the Antarctic" on channel 2 Friday afternoon and night respectively.

Monday's Best

10.00 a.m.—Actress Diana Barrymore on the Home Show to talk about her autobiography (channel 4).

4.30—English actor Kenneth More guests on Strike It Rich (channel 11).

7.30—Progressive Conservative speaker (channels 2 and 6); Bold Journey treks through Ontario (channel 5).

9.00—Hank Bloomgarden on 21 (channel 4).

10.00—John Kerr of "Tea and Sympathy" and Phyllis Love of "Friendly Persuasion" in Studio One's "The Years in Between" (channel 13).

Monday's Sport

7.30—AAU boxing (channel 13).

7.45—Outdoors with Hall Denton (channels 2 and 6).

8.00—Texas wrestling (channel 12).

9.00—Seattle wrestling (channel 13).

10.00—Toronto wrestling (channel 6).

Monday's Movies

10.00—"Hidden Room," (channel 6).

12.00—"Thread That Runs So True," (channel 4).

12.30—"Return of Monte Cristo," (channel 5). Fair.

10.10—"Bed of Roses," (channel 13).

10.30—"Black Widow," (channel 4).

10.35—"Secret People," (channel 12), an Italian film best known because it was the first for Audrey Hepburn.

10.45—"Captain Is a Lady," (channel 5).

11.15—"Eight o'Clock Walk," (channel 2). Fair.

1.00 a.m.—"Bachelor Bait," (channel 13).

Concert Choices Varied

Everything from "Blue Tail Fly" to Bela Bartok music to the 23rd Psalm is on the program for the first public concert of the Greater Victoria schools orchestra, in Victoria High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

City symphony orchestra conductor Hans Gruber will take the podium to direct the one selection—excerpts from the first and third movement of Tschaikovsky's Sixth Symphony.

Regular conductor Dorothy Evans will lead the student orchestra in more than a dozen other numbers, some of them being "Plink Plank Plunk," "Pop Goes the Weasel," three pieces for young orchestras by Bartok, music of Mozart and Handel and music from the movie, "Hans Christian Anderson."

Norma Douglas and Freida Rance will lead the boys', girls' and mixed choirs of Victoria High, Oak Bay High and Central Junior High Schools in hymns, folk songs, sea shanties and such popular numbers as "Easter Parade" and the policemen's chorus from "Pirates of Penzance."

Vocal and instrumental soloists include Corinne Field, Darlaine Frewing, Carol James, Guy Price, John Anderson, David Heal and Virginia McKay. The orchestra has been augmented by the addition of the 25-member S. J. Willis group.

Teen Tigers Plan Program

A course in aircraft spotting and construction of five Sabot-class sailboats is the objective of the youthful, recently-formed, Teen Tiger Club of Prospect Lake.

The club, comprising boys and girls in their early teens, has finished one of the sailboats and is nearing the finish of the second. The youngsters hope to have five such craft by the summer.

David Wright, 5367 Ruston, is teaching the group, who are also members of the Junior Aircraft Observer Corps.

Gambling Royals Make Good— Blank Amerks to Reach Final

NEW WESTMINSTER — New Westminster Royals made manager-coach Hal Laycoe's strategy look brilliant here Saturday night as they bounced the Seattle Americans out of the Western Hockey League playdowns with a rousing 6-0 victory before a capacity crowd.

Victory gave Royals the Western Division championship in six games. They lost by 7-1 and 6-2 in games at Seattle but won one away from home and all three played on Queen's Park Arena's small ice surface.

Laycoe gambled on Saturday's game when he decided to play at Seattle Friday night without defencemen Ted Lebodia and Tom Stecyk and winger Gordie Fashoway.

TOP STRENGTH

As inspired as ever, the amazing Royals just checked the Americans off their feet to climax a scrappy playoff display which started with the elimination of Victoria Cougars in the divisional semi-finals.

Veteran Max McNab, a real pro, again led the Royals last night. The clever centre scored twice and set up one goal in a smooth display.

Bobby Love scored the first New Westminster goal, McNab got the next two as the Royal standbys came through when it was needed.

After that, rookie Denny Olson, Stecyk and fiery sophomore Arnie Schmautz added to the total against the frustrated Americans.

Stecyk also had an assist and, with Lebodia, helped give goalie Bev Bentley great protection.

Royals will now meet Brandon Regals in a best-of-seven final for the right to play the Quebec Hockey League playoff champions for the Duke of Edinburgh Trophy.

Seattle—Goal, Franzin; defence, Sinclair, Wright; Creighton, Repka; forwards, Forster, Fielder, Kinasewich, Pomerene, Lenardon, Bradley, E. Dorohoy, Hart, Pilous, Lea.

New Westminster—Goal, Bentley; defence, Stecyk, Benjamin, Matthews, Lebodia; forwards, McNab, O. Dorohoy, Love, Goodwin, Fashoway, Boyce, Schmautz, Olsen, Roberge, Kukulowicz.

FIRST PERIOD

1. New Westminster, Love (Boyce, Stecyk) 7.45.

2. New Westminster, McNab (Schmautz, Goodwin) 11.52.

Penalties: Lenardon 2.01, Hart 9.12, Fashoway 15.32.

SECOND PERIOD

3. New Westminster, McNab 1.50.

New Field for Rehabilitation Just a Confirmation to Fans

WICHITA, Kan. (UP) — The National Baseball Congress announced Saturday that it was teaching real robbers to become umpires.

"Fans in the future better be careful when calling the umpire 'robber'," the congress warned, "because they may be telling the truth."

The teaching will be done behind prison walls. And, should the convicts become capable, they would be chartered to work games outside the walls upon discharge from prison.

So far, congress president Ray Dumont said, the congress has issued charters to train umpires at the federal penitentiaries at Atlanta, Ga., and Terre Haute, Ind., in addition to the state prison at Angola, La.

"Only model prisoners who show aptitude for umpiring are approved through the warden's office and are issued individual membership in the national association," the congress said.

The umpires will officiate games within their own prison walls, but, "upon release from prison they are permitted to continue their membership . . ." it added.

Leonard Again Close for Last Round— Celtics Win Thrilling Pro Hoop Final

Stan Leonard, the ex-Vancouver professional who has been coming closer to his first major American victory with every tournament he enters, is only one stroke off the pace in the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Open, and the question now is can he break his final-round jinx?

Leonard fired a three-under-par 67 in the third round yesterday, a round played only by Doug Ford. Ford and Julius Boros are tied for the 54-hole lead with 206, one stroke up on Leonard and Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Leonard, a strong challenger in last week's Masters tournament, had been five strokes behind the leaders at the close of Friday's play.

Boros birdied the last hole yesterday for a one-over-par 71, after leading by five strokes Friday night. Ford checked in with a 67 after a 12-foot eagle putt on the 18th.

EXTRA PERIODS: Boston's pressure-proof Celtics just made it last night at Boston as they outlasted the surprising St. Louis Hawks in the seventh game of the National Basketball Association final.

It was a wild double-overtime battle which ended 125-123 as Hawks missed a desperation last-second try for the equalizing points.

Rookie Tom Heinsohn led the Celtics with 37 points while brilliant Bob Pettit was even better with 39 for the losers.

Frank Ramsey, who scored seven points in the first overtime period, put Celtics ahead to stay early in the second extra session.

A free throw moved Hawks within a point but Ned Park missed his second toss. St. Louis got the rebound with 17 seconds left but coach Alex Hannum, forced into action with four of his players fouled out, was called for travelling.

Hannum then took the throw in and heaved it the length of the floor against the Boston backboards. Pettit barely missed an attempt to tip in the tying basket.

RUSS PROPOSAL: Soviet sports authorities yesterday invited the United States to send a 70-member track and field team to Moscow to compete in a dual meet against Russian stars July 12-14, and indicated that if the U.S. accepts, Russia would like to come to America for a return match in 1958.

St. Andrews, building what should be a powerhouse team for the coming Pacific Coast League soccer season, have signed John Wilson, formerly of Preston North End, who led the English second division in scoring two seasons ago, and left-half Doug Craig, last year with New Westminster Royals.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

Chalky Wright, the old featherweight champion, was a one-time gambler and his game was craps. Betting on horses didn't interest him because at the track or in a pool room, considerable time must elapse before the result is known. "The dice," Chalky said, "tell you right away."

Obviously, Chalky would not be enchanted by the baseball odds quoted yesterday in Las Vegas. Not only must the bettor wait five and a half months for action, but at the end of that time the five-dollar bill that he has left moldering on the Yankees returns a profit of only two dollars. There are no comparative figures at hand, but the impression is that the Las Vegas odds of 2 to 5 may be the lowest price ever made against any ball club before opening day.

Nothing illustrates more vividly the scandalous imbalance of the American League, or, at least, the awe with which baseball bettors regard the champions. It is, of course, the opinion of the bettors which the odds reflect, not the judgment of the bookmakers, who are merely accountants in this operation. They establish odds according to the play they receive, and in the American League they have come up with a 154 per-cent book.

* * *

The percentage of any betting line is figured thus: add the two figures in the odds (if the price is 4 to 1, then 4 plus 1 equals 5) and divide the total into 100 (5 goes into 100 20 times). If all five starters in a race were held at 4 to 1, or a percentage of 20 each, the book would add up to 100 exactly, and if each starter received the same amount of play, there would be four losing dollars for each winning one. The bookmaker would collect exactly enough money to pay off the winners, keeping nothing for his children's education. This is not his goal, so he tries to figure his line at, say, 115 per cent.

Prices quoted in the American League are: Yankees, 2 to 5; Detroit, 2½ to 1; Cleveland and Chicago, 4 to 1; Boston, 8 to 1; Baltimore, Kansas City and Washington, 100 to 1. This adds up to 154 per cent, theoretically enabling the book to pay out $100 and keep $54, but this is only theory because there'll be no clamoring horde betting the Athletics or Senators at 100 to 1. Chances are the Yankees get virtually all the play, which makes the line top heavy.

With three to five clubs expected to challenge in the National League, the play is more evenly distributed and the odds somewhat less rancid. Brooklyn and Milwaukee are favored at 6 to 5; then Cincinnati, 2½ to 1; St. Louis, 10 to 1; Philadelphia, 80 to 1; Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago, 100 to 1. This figures out at 133 per cent.

* * *

Naturally, the question is: Can the Yankees be that good? The answer is, yes, maybe better.

Clubs hoping to make deals have been waiting for Casey Stengel to start cutting infielders from his squad, but he doesn't mean to. He has players of such uncommon versatility that he believes he can carry 11 pitchers, keep all his infielders, and get along with only three men officially designated as outfielders—Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Enos Slaughter.

One of his catchers, Elston Howard, and three men listed as infielders — Joe Collins, Woody Held and Tony Kubek — can play in the outfield. So can Bill Skowron, if necessary, and the Moose also has worked at third. Up to now, no municipal ordinance has been passed barring Yogi Berra from the outfield or forbidding Bauer to catch.

Virtually every one of the infielders — Billy Martin, Gil MacDougald, Jerry Coleman and the rest — can play several positions in big league style. Casey is so rich that for a while this spring he toyed with the idea of using Skowron at third base and Marv Throneberry on first. Though he suspected that good pitchers might befuddle Throneberry with breaking stuff, he couldn't ignore the fact that Throneberry had led a Triple-A league two years straight in home runs and runs batted-in. He was comparing Andy Carey's 1956 figures of seven home runs and 50 runs batted-in with Throneberry's 42 home runs and 145 r-b-i's for Denver.

* * *

In baseball literature, "Murderers' Row" always refers to the Yankees of the 1920s with Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel and Tony Lazzeri. In the four seasons this quartet played together, their annual home run production was 93, 133, 102 and 109.

Writers are reluctant to swipe the old copyright for Mantle, Berra, Bauer and Skowron. Call 'em Murder, Inc. then, for the last year these four hit 131 home runs, a figure the older quartet exceeded only in 1927, when the Babe had his record 60.

This club has youth, power, speed, pitching, defensive polish and extraordinary adaptability. It may be the greatest that ever existed, greater than the Yankees of Ruth's time or Joe DiMaggio's, greater than the Athletics of Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx, greater than any of the old Giants or Cardinals or Cubs or White Sox — just the greatest.

The price in Las Vegas ought to be 1 to 10.

Goodwin Bests Calgary Vet In Empress Tourney Final

George Goodwin of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, taking advantage of a five-stroke edge in handicap, won the Empress Golf Tournament for the second time in four years at Victoria Golf Club yesterday with a 4 and 3 victory over C. V. H. "Boysie" Bryan of Calgary.

Goodwin, the 1954 Sir Edward Beatty Trophy winner, ended cap strokes to halve the hole the match on the 15th green while four up. Both golfers blew sky high on the hole, Goodwin taking an eight and Bryan a seven.

"He's a darn good golfer," Goodwin said of Bryan later. "As I told him after the match, I think I just met him on an off day, or he would have won himself."

However, Bryan was never in serious contention yesterday. Goodwin won the second, fifth, sixth and seventh holes before Bryan scrambled back to take the next two and leave Goodwin two up at the turn.

Goodwin went three up on the 10th with a birdie three to Bryan's par. The 11th and 12th were halved, but Goodwin sank a 20-foot putt to take the 14th.

Both went into the trees with their drives on the 15th. Bryan finally holed out with a three-over-par seven. Goodwin, laying six, stroked a four-foot putt to gain the half with his handicap stroke.

Other results follow:

Empress Flight: R. H. Lawson, Calgary, defeated D. V. Cawley, Seattle, one up.

Oak Bay Flight: W. W. Ivory, Portland, defeated Dr. L. A. Schemer, Port Angeles, Wash., one up.

Uplands Flight: R. S. Osgood, Pasadena, Calif., defeated W. G. Keelan, Calgary, 3-2.

But here in Reno, which bills itself as the "biggest little city in the world," they've reached the extremes:

—Paul Anderson, the 340-pound giant who won the Olympic weight-lifting title at Melbourne and now is in his first week as a night club entertainer at the Mapes Hotel.

—And Billy Barty, an 80-pound midget who stands 3-10, who was elected president of the little people of America at the recent convention at the Riverside Hotel.

Both claim to be athletes—and we're not able to dispute their word.

"Shucks, I can do things besides lifting weights," said Anderson. "I ran the 100-yard dash in a shade over 11 seconds when I was in high school. And I played freshman football at Furman University."

Not to be outdone, little Billy piped up:

"I ran the 100 in 14 seconds flat while in college. And did you know that I won my letter at football while attending Los Angeles City College?

"That's right. They had a play in which I took the ball and ran between the centre's legs. And it worked. I averaged 4½ yards per carry on seven tries in one game."

Little Billy, who now is a big star with the Spike Jones television show, had pictures in his wallet to show when he was playing football. He also claims he can break 100 on the golf course—says he shot a 98 one time.

But Anderson is the "big man" in these parts right now. He is getting a reported $5,000 per week for his first two weks at the Mapes. And he packed 'em in—at least for the first part of the engagement.

A big hit in the Melbourne Olympics as a weight-lifter, Anderson doesn't do much of that on the stage. He confined himself to lifting one 400-pound weight, then goes in for such stunts as lifting $15,000 worth of silver dollars weighing about 1,100 pounds, including the case, and lifting a round table with 16 people on it.

Anderson, from the little town of Toccoma, Ga., isn't sure that his night club act will be a success. But he doesn't have all his eggs (or weights) in one basket.

"If this doesn't pan out," he says, "my manager, Ben (the Hangman) Cantonwine, says we'll go into the wrestling game."

Outfielder Making Hay In Bid to Leave Farm

His big test will come as soon as pitchers have their curve balls under control but for the moment, outfielder Dick Stuart of the Hollywood Stars is king of all he surveys in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Stuart, who predicted boldly that the Pittsburgh Pirates couldn't keep him down on the farm, has only played four PCL games, but he has hit five home runs in the last three of them.

Numbers four and five came yesterday afternoon at San Diego. They were good for three runs, the difference in a 4-1 Hollywood win which put the Stars on top of the standings.

Stuart hit 66 home runs for Lincoln in the Western League last season and spent spring training with the Pirates. Paying no heed to his amazing number of strikeouts, he provided the best Pittsburgh training camp copy with his brash confidence in his ability to hit them out of the park, off any pitcher.

Mounties made it two in a row over Los Angeles Angels as ex-Brooklyn righthander Erv Palica, with late-inning help, got credit for a 2-1 win.

A home run by Jake Crowford in the fifth-inning and a double by Buddy Peterson and a single by Jim Marshall in the sixth accounted for Vancouver's runs.

Seattle Rainiers lost their first game, 4-3, when Nippy Jones hit an 11th-inning home run for Sacramento, and San Francisco Seals edged by Portland Beavers, 2-1.

JBAA Bests Wanderers In Cowichan Cup Final

JBAA won the Cowichan Cup and the Vancouver Island rugby championship at Macdonald Park yesterday, scoring twice in the second half for a 6-3 victory over Oak Bay Wanderers.

Gordie Hemmingway opened scoring shortly after the second half began with a penalty kick, then made it 6-0 five minutes later with a try from a three-quarter line movement.

Wanderers, city Barnard Cup champions, carried the play from that point but didn't score until minutes before the final whistle, when Frank Barry ploughed across the line for a try.

Wanderers lost the services of rugged Gerry Main with the game only five minutes old. Main suffered a cracked rib and was taken to hospital for treatment.

Single Game Tomorrow Opens Big League Play; Yanks Choice of 126 of 132 Writers in Poll

NEW YORK — A new major league baseball season opens tomorrow with the New York Yankees as prohibitive favorites to win their eighth American League pennant in nine years and Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers the pre-season picks to battle it out in the National League.

Only one game the traditional opener at Washington's new park featured the Baltimore Orioles, who, like the Senators, will be played on Monday.

The other 14 clubs will battle bad weather open league play on Tuesday at New York, Baltimore, Cleveland and [illegible] the Athletics [illegible] Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago in the National.

Philadelphia will get the night season started pair, meeting the Brooklyn Dodgers under the lights for the first night opener in major league history.

A total of [illegible] baseball writers showed 126 picking the Yankees to win and six picking the Stengelmen to finish second in an unprecedented show of faith.

Detroit Tigers got two first place votes, Cleveland Indians one and Chicago White sox three. The Tigers were the popular choice to finish second 70 writers placing them as runners-up ahead of [illegible] for the Indians and 23 for the White sox.

While the Yankees had formidable lead, it was the Yankees, Indians, White sox, Boston Red sox, Baltimore Orioles, Kansas City Athletics and the senators in that order in the American League.

The Dodgers got 12 votes and Cincinnati Redlegs 24. Three writers went overboard for the St. Louis Cardinals. Two others seeking dubious fame, picked for the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants.

While the Yanks had formidable lead, it was the Yankees, Indians, White sox, Boston Red sox, Baltimore Orioles, Kansas City Athletics and the senators in that order in the American League.

[illegible] the National League the league pick was Dodgers had the Braves, Dodgers, Reds, Cardinals, Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies, Giants and Cubs.

[illegible] writers [illegible] a Yankee World series and [illegible] series against the Yankees and [illegible] the Reds and the Yanks, three had it would be the Cards and the Yanks.

The hopeful supporter who picked the Yankees as the dark horse [illegible] series [illegible] the Yankees will win, start as the 2-1 favorites pennant favorites in history at 2-5.

In the National League, the experts picked the Braves and Dodgers to finish first and second, with the Reds at the same place in the Leagues in the American League.

Rocket's Four-Goal Show Brings Unexpected Praise

MONTREAL (CP)—Maurice "Rocket" Richard of Montreal Canadiens may leave some folk speechless but it works the other way round, too.

The venerable Rocket's explosive four-goal performance Saturday against Boston Bruins did wonders for a man whose speech had been impaired by a stroke, nursing director Madge McKillop of the Royal Edward Institute reported Friday.

The man, about 10, was carried by stretcher to watch television as Canadiens and Bruins battled in the Stanley Cup final. He gave a "big yell" when the Rocket, 35, scored his fourth goal in Montreal's 5-1 victory. Montreal leads the series 3-0.

"He's been talking ever since," Miss McKillop said. "That one shout restored his confidence."

'Papa' Beliveau an Onlooker As Canyens Skate Out Kinks

By W. R. WHEATLEY

BOSTON (CP) — While four of the players looked on as spectators, including Jean Beliveau, who was handing out cigars, Montreal Canadiens squad went through a brisk half-hour drill Saturday at the Boston Arena in preparation for the fourth game of the Stanley Cup final Sunday night against Boston Bruins.

Sitting it out with Beliveau were the two Richards, Maurice and Henri — and Bert Olmstead.

Henri Richard reported as slightly aged knee much better and it is likely he will play in Sunday's game. He suffered pulled ligaments on Thursday's game. Canadiens won it 4-2 and moved into a commanding 3-0 lead in the best of seven final.

Goalie Jacques Plante was on the ice only a few minutes. Sub goalie Gerry McNeil worked through the whole practice which was devoted entirely to skating and shooting.

Beliveau received a telephone call from Montreal Friday night telling him he is a papa. He toted a big box of cigars to the arena and was handing them out lavishly with a big grin.

Beliveau said that since he's first born, and a boy he probably won't have final say about the name but the chance likely will be between Helen and Louise.

The early afternoon workout was held at the arena because of a basketball game at Boston Garden, home of the Bruins. There was lots of pep at practice and the players did want to split. The only struggles Doug Harvey, Dickie Moore and Claude Provost [illegible] had to be chased from the ice by trainer Hector Dubois.

BRUINS TAKE REST

Coach Mat Sergeant of the Bruins decided to give his whole team a rest Saturday. There was to workout while Schmidt [illegible]

Extremes	8	0	5	3	14	28	3

Yesterday's score: Tillicums 8, Extremes 0.

Tillicums kept their hopes of a second-half championship in the Victoria and District Football League alive yesterday and at the same time received word that their task is going to be easier than was expected.

With speedy Ian Walker scoring three times Tillicums blanked Esquimalt 6-0 at Royal Athletic park yesterday [illegible] Dave Ban put Tillicums behind Esquimalt George Hotel which has already completed its schedule.

Officials announced yesterday that in case of a tie, the title would go to Tillicums on the basis of a better goal average. It had been thought that a playoff would be necessary.

Tillicums had an easy time in posting their 10th straight win yesterday. They led 1-0 at the end of the first half on two goals by Walker, one by George Wright and one by Ced Rabb. Rabb also set up two of the others. Joe Hutchinson and Walker wrapped it up after the intermission.

Make New Doors from Old

Many of the older houses and apartments feature doors of the panelled type shown at the left in picture A. The panels may be cracked, the stile may be dented especially along the edges indicated at 2, and the bottom rail may have been kicked and badly worn. [illegible] may be made [illegible] these [illegible] by using any of the pressed boards, hardboards and plywoods readily available at lumber yards.

The usual [illegible] of picture A shows how to make a flush door. Measure the height and width carefully, and cut the [illegible] two thicknesses of [illegible] saw. Round the edges for a little less than the others, to be sanded down to size.

Remove all panel and cut out from the four sides and rails to leave enough [illegible] to [illegible] the new [illegible]. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—What finish should we use for a wooden salad bowl?

A. The finish should be [illegible] as water [illegible] affected [illegible] soap suds or drinks. Ask your paint store for special [illegible] materials.

Q. What kind of paint should we use for trim on an uncoated masonry house?

A. Use any paint that does not [illegible].

Q. We found it very difficult to paint several large trellises. We used a brush, and did not have a spray outfit. How could we have saved time?

A. It would [illegible] to [illegible] a [illegible] and [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] assembly. Paint [illegible] side at a time, and allowing drying time would have been easier. Or, the parts could have been dip painted.

No Zoysia Available

Do-it-yourself expert J. Ralph Dalzell stirred up a flutter of excitement last week when he left his familiar workshop and went out into what are for him the strange surroundings of the garden.

But The Daily Colonist's popular garden expert M. V. Chesnut put Mr. Dalzell back on the right track again even if his words of advice are disappointing to zoysia fans.

Zoysia grass can be used with excellent results on hot climates but it is unsuited to this district. Furthermore Canadian nurseries do not make a practice of stocking zoysia.

Training Aid Agreed

Education Minister Leslie R. Peterson has announced [illegible] Federal funds are [illegible] assistance from the federal government for the purpose of [illegible] ing vocational schools.

Mr. Peterson travelled to Ottawa twice to get B.C.'s agreement before the [illegible] was announced by [illegible] between B.C. and the federal government under which the federal government will share capital and operating expenses of vocational schools for five years from April 1.

"British Columbia is presently undergoing a vast industrial expansion," the announcement said, "and the need for providing trained workers is becoming a matter of paramount importance."

CAPITAL PURPOSES

While the agreement is not a [illegible] it would be part [illegible] lower than [illegible]

The agreement, Mr. Peterson said:

"The capital portion per [illegible] will be of great assistance to us in providing [illegible] and [illegible] services in Prince George, [illegible] Victoria and [illegible] Vancouver."

Humphrey Colby, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, saw small hope in the minister's announcement for federal aid in the extension of the F. J. Tatlow technical-vocational school in Victoria included in the board's current three-year building program.

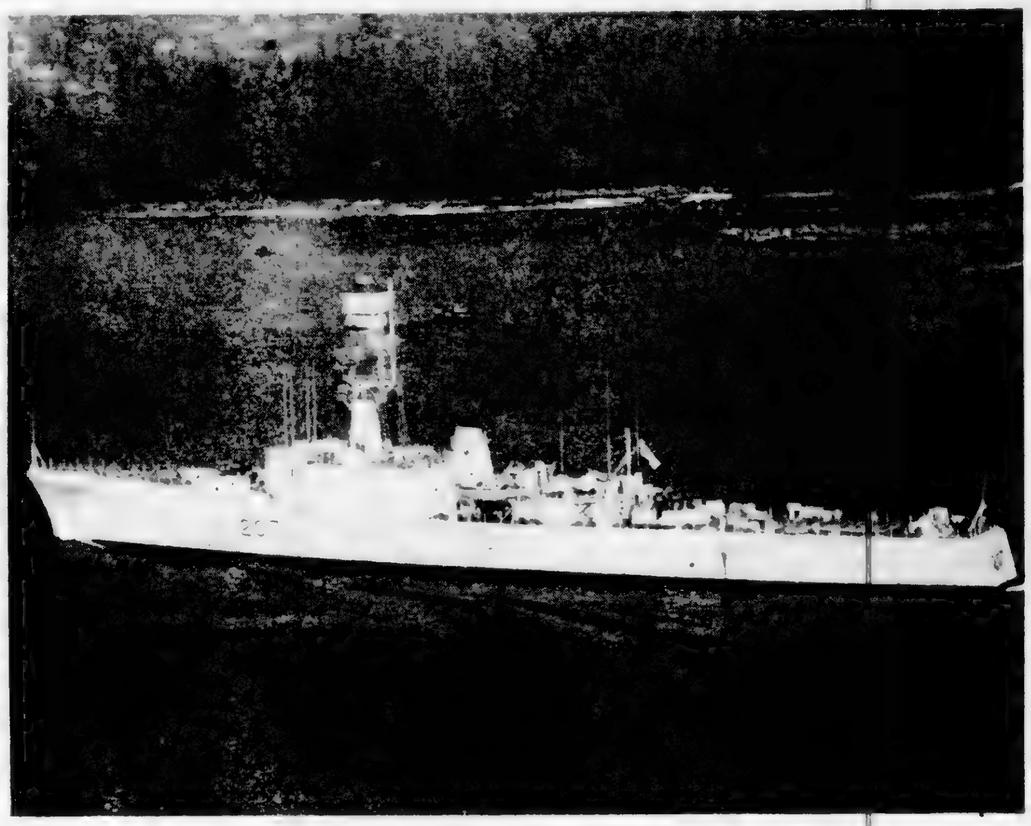
SKEENA:

First Ship of Her Class Commissioned Here



Canada's growing fleet of destroyer escorts, estimated to cost more than $325,000,000 for 15 ships, promises to be the most effective anti-submarine naval surface force in the world. Skeena, which bears a proud name, is the first of her class to join the fleet at Esquimalt, under command of Commander John Dawson. She is Canadian-built, through and through. She carries terriffic hitting force. She is a killer.

ANOTHER WAR IS LOOMING

By SIR WINSTON S. CHURCHILL

I HAD BEEN WORKING continuously upon "The River War." This work was extending in scope. From being a mere chronicle of the Omdurman campaign, it grew backwards into what was almost a history of the ruin and rescue of the Soudan.

[illegible]

There Was Another "Winston"

In the spring of 1899 I became conscious of the fact that there was another Winston Churchill who also wrote books; apparently he wrote novels, and very good novels too, which achieved an enormous circulation in the United States.

I received from many quarters [illegible] congratulations on my [illegible] as a writer. I [illegible] thought at first these were due [illegible] belated appreciation of the merits of Sa[illegible] Gladstone. City Songsters Canada's Finest

By DAVID FRANCIS

VICTORIA HAS BETTER singing canaries than any other city in Canada.

And the two women who own those delightful songsters have collected more trophies and ribbons at bird shows in Canada and the United States than any opponents they have ever had.

They are Mrs. Elsie M. Eddie, 1018 Arquilon, and Mrs. W. W. Cross, 720 Selkirk.

Special Knowledge Needed

[illegible]

Little Ones Are Mimics

"They are wee mimics," she added. "They will pick up the tones of outside birds if raised in the garden or by a window."

Surrounded by some of the 200 ribbons and 100 trophies won by their roller canaries at contests in Canada and the United States over the last six years, are Mrs. E. M. Eddie, left, and Mrs. W. W. Cross, of Victoria. In the cages are some of the birds which have brought honors here. One of Mrs. Eddie's canaries has been valued at $300. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

YOU AND YOUR BIRD — By G. BUELL CULVER

Gravel's for Grinding

IF YOU had no teeth, you would be handicapped when meal time rolled around. That's what happens to your parakeet when he's not supplied with an ample amount of proper gravel. Your bird eats bits of gravel that he uses in his gizzard to grind food into a soft, easily digested form.

Decorative, But Accomplished and Very Human Are Sweden's Princesses

Lovely Ladies of Castle Haga

By LADY PRATT

A FASCINATING contrast is provided by the three eldest daughters of Princes Sibylla of Sweden—Margaretha, 22, Birgitta, 19, and Desiree, 18—sisters of Crown Prince Carl Gustaf, 10-year-old Heir Apparent to the Throne.

INTRODUCING The Royal Princesses of Europe

This is the first article of a series written by LADY PRATT, wife of a distinguished British diplomat.

In this series you will read of the three lovely princesses of Sweden, of beautiful Astrid of Norway, of charming Beatrix of the Netherlands, dainty Margrethe of Denmark, little Sophia of Greece, Alexandra of Kent and Britain's beloved Margaret.

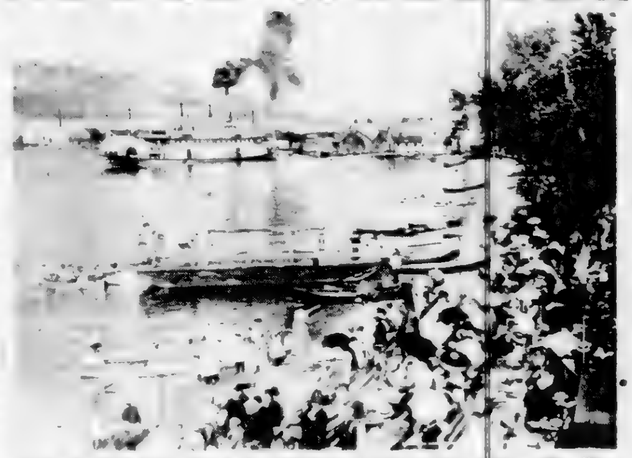
The twisted mind



Beyond the happy beach scene is the paddlesheeler Okanagan aboard which a police officer guarding two prisoners was fatally wounded by a cold-blooded gunman. But James, the bank robber, was near the end of the road. Constable Aston's death hastened him towards the gallows.

Blew Pepper in Guard's Face

Day before his execution Guard Simson came into his cell with a meal, and with a quick movement the murderer blew the contents of the tube in Simson's eyes. Half-blinded, the guard staggered back, but had the presence of mind to swing at the condemned man with his fist. Half stunned by the blow James reeled back, which was just time enough for Simson to slam the cell door. If James had got hold of Simson's keys, he might have made it to freedom through the mail office.

The GUNMAN

IT WAS about a quarter to nine on the frosty night of March 16, 1912, that the door of Chater and Taylor's general store and post office, at South Kelowna, slowly opened to admit a customer, a man roughly dressed, his heavy work trousers tucked into the tops of muddy, highlaced boots. His mackinaw coat bore traces of hard wear, and a cloth cap pulled low over his eyes completed his garb.

"That's right. Keep ... Open that up."

Bing Crosby Tells a Writer

By LYDIA LANE

IT'S JUST FEMININITY!

HOLLYWOOD—There is no one in Hollywood better loved than Bing Crosby. He has won the crown of success so long, so graciously, that he's won a place for himself among the all-time greats.

Little Musician Knows Her Mind

BETTY WARREN . . . wanted a piano.

By BERT BINNY

THERE simply wasn't room. You don't hang pianos from the ceiling and they are more than usually difficult to play if standing on end. Stephen Potter relates an instance of a piano placed on top of a radio but even that bizarre arrangement wouldn't help.

But Betty, then at the age of eight years, wanted to play the piano, and with the unswerving ardor of her age conflict swirling within she was privately. Her importunities continued until, in a moment of heaven-sent inspiration, her mother showed her the picture of a piano accordion in a catalogue.

"What" asked Betty "is that?"

Mother explained.

"Okay," said Betty.

Sooke Vote Light

Schools By-Law Passed

Only one out of five registered voters in the sprawling Sooke school district went to the polls yesterday to approve a $53,000 money by-law for school construction.

Jubilant school trustees, however, saw two years of preparations for the plebiscite rewarded with approval by 68 per cent of those who voted. A 60 per cent affirmative vote was necessary for passage.

Opposition votes slightly edgist the affirmative in five of the 11 polling places. They were Sooke, East Sooke, Jordan River, Shirley and Otter Point.

Total "yes" votes were 558 and 255 expressed opposition.

Tangible Result of 'Do It Yourself'

This is the house that Peter built. Marguerite Townshend sits on the raised hearth, holding young Richard on her lap. The Townshends brought all the rock for this beautiful fireplace from Sooke and Jordan River beaches. The house appears to "grow" at the edge of a steep cliff and the split level basement is full of sunshine.—(Photos by Bud Kinsman.)

This is the 23-foot yacht Peter and Marguerite Townshend have almost completed. It was designed by Nightengale of Seattle.

Couple Building Attractive Home, Graceful Sloop

By EILEEN LEAROYD

In this hard do-it-yourself world no two people seem better able to do it themselves than Peter and Marguerite Townshend.

Not only did they build their own attractive and intriguing cliff-side dwelling but they are three-quarters of the way to finishing a combined racing and cruising sailboat as well.

The 23-foot sloop on dry dock in their basement already shows the promise of what she will be in the water, graceful exceptionally fast yet seaworthy in heavy weather. The Townshends have this last spent eight months building the club class boat.

They hope to put "The Envy," as she will be christened in the water by June. Once there she will join the only other Cub class yacht in these waters which is owned by Mr. Gordon Ingles.

But more and more of this new class are likely to be seen. Mr. Townshend has four friends presently engaged in building the Seattle designed craft. Mr. Gordon Ford, Dr. Hugh Ford, Dr. W. A. Tremblaine and Mr. J. D. Woodward.

Mr. Townshend has constructed his yacht with cedar hull, mahogany cabin and trim and a fibreglass deck. The 45-foot mast is hollow box type made from Sitka spruce.

Old Hand at Boats

Mr. Townshend is an old hand at boat-building. He made his first sailboat when still in high school. He is an experienced yacht man and has been a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club since 1945. Mrs. Townshend, the daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. P. F. Fairfull was not an addict before meeting her husband, but she spent her honeymoon on a yacht and has since become an enthusiastic sailor even to joining the hardy frostbiters.

The Townshends live at 2591 Sea View Drive, and have the sort of vista that most people only manage to find on holiday trips. But here at home and all the year round they have the full sweep of Cadboro Bay's blue waters at their feet.

Arbutus and pine trees stand by the house and steep paths trail down to the sea.

Adding to the happy illusion of being inside and outside at the same time are unusual pieces of driftwood placed in the house and the wide use of natural woods in the interior.

The house follows the new open plan with no solid divisions between kitchen, living room, dining room and entrance hall. The walls are mahogany panelling in both blond and dark stain. The ceilings are 2x6 tongue and groove red cedar planking on exposed beams.

The flooring used in the main rooms is a rectangular tile made from brown masonite. It is unusually attractive, maintains a high polish and is exceptionally hard wearing. Mr. Townshend who works for a firm of local architects, thought of the masonite after remembering the way it stood up as flooring in army buildings.

The lovely fireplace, fashioned from stones of all shapes and sizes, is a focal point of the room, and the chimneypiece is centred by the Townshend family crest, worked by artist Jan Zach. Peter and Marguerite Townshend collected all the stones themselves from beaches around Sooke and Jordan River.

Let British Tailor Say What He Thinks Is Right

By WALTER HACKETT

In Britain after you have selected your material don't tell the tailor what to do. Instead, let him tell you what he thinks is right, otherwise you might get a half-smile colder than the interior of a deep freeze.

In Italy, it might be wise to show the cutter your favorite suit and ask him to copy it. If a travel schedule forbids your waiting around for the finished garment, have it shipped home and declare it on your customs declaration.

Despite what you may have heard, Madrid and Barcelona are not places to have suits made, even at $50, for styling and fit are not present.

Britain being a land where rain, dew, drizzle and mist are considered part of the day's pattern, raincoats (or "macs," as they are called in tribute to Macintoshes) are serviceable, stylish and inexpensive.

The Austrian Tyrol is the place to get that custom-made pair of ski boots at $20. In Switzerland the price is approximately 50 per cent higher, but still a bargain.

Don't buy shoes, especially ready-made ones, any place else in Europe, for the lasts definitely are not for the American male foot.

Sweaters, mufflers and scarves in soft wool, angora and cashmere are other shrewd buys in Britain. For $15 you can get a long-sleeve cashmere sweater. If you happen to set down at Shannon airport, in the passenger lounge shop consider for $10 a hand-knit fisherman's sweater made by a patient old lady on the Island of Aran.

Hoboes Out Before Royal Visit to Paris

PARIS (NANA) — He's always on the spot for the big occasion but you rarely see him, and if you did you wouldn't think Georges Albayez is the policeman with the most nerve-racking job in France.

This lonely little man who peers at you with icy-blue eyes from behind a shock of steel-white hair is head of the Service Des Voyages Officiels et Securite Des Hautes Personalites and that, boiled to its simplest terms, means that he's the cop who is directly and absolutely responsible for the safety of distinguished visitors to La Belle France. Visitors like Queen Elizabeth, for instance, this month.

Ever since the visit was planned some five months ago M. Albayez worked planning a detailed campaign that took in such details as sweeping the Seine for mines clearing all the hoboes from their favorite sleeping spots under the bridges and getting the antecedents of every one of the 8,000 permanent members of the British colony in Paris. All this with a staff of one man and two women stenographers—though he can call on as many thousand troops, policemen, firemen and secret service agents as he likes.

Albayez didn't expect any trouble for the Queen's visit—the French people, having cut off the heads of their own king and queen, adore her, which is typical French logic. But some visitors can present tricky problems, like Tito of Yugoslavia who came last year.

Just in case his anti-Communist ex-ne had awkward ideas Albayez went the whole works with troops along the sidewalks, hundreds of armed police on the rooftops, six fighter aircraft on patrol and a low-flying airship for radio control. And just as Tito arrived at the Bois de Boulogne station there was all hares to plays.

Down in the sewers that honeycomb the streets police found a gang of men. Armored cars whipped them protesting to the nearest clubhouse and there they stayed till Tito had passed—even though they did turn out to be honest sewermen. Albayez still blushes when he remembers this incident. But he doesn't let up.

After all in the past 50 years two presidents, one visiting king and several leading politicians have been assassinated on big occasions.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

Margaret's dress salon has started fashion parades at nine o'clock in the evening. It's Margaret's answer to the women who spend hours in the salon and then say, "I'll have to ask my husband—but he's tied up at the office."

Georges Simenon, novelist with the jet-propelled output, has cancelled all engagements for 11 days and holed up in his villa at Cannes. The reason: he's started on his 167th novel and 11 days is the time he needs to finish it.

You heard what happened when Ernest Hemmingway called him up one time? "Sorry, I can't disturb him: he's just started a new book," apologized Mme. Simenon: "O.K." grunted the old man of the sea, "I'll hold the line till he's finished."

His working program: start promptly at 6.30 in the morning, write solidly for two hours. Breakfast. Two-hour walk. Lunch. Half-hour's siesta. Drive along the coast with his wife. Dinner. Bed. Net result for the day: one chapter.

From the time he finished book 166 to the time he started on 167, just 32 days had gone by. "If I stay a couple of months without writing I lose confidence in myself," Simenon says. And these days he writes largely for the fun of it.

His income from writing, TV and films in 21 countries is vast and would last him several lifetimes if he never wrote another word.

We said this was book 167. It is—under his own name. But if we count his mass output as a struggling young man, written under 14 different pen-names, his total of published works, at the age [illegible] total of 136.

Incidentally, writing seems to run in the family. At the time Simenon was finishing off "My Son" his eight-year-old boy Johnnie proudly wrote "finis" to his own initial effort as a writer. The title: "My Father."

DIPLOMATIC BAG

The diplomatic boys who gather in the more expensive cocktail bars round the Etoile are telling the story of the peasant who was standing in Budapest, staring wide-eyed at a fleet of sleek American-built autos outside the ministry of the interior.

After a while a bystander taps him on the shoulder and says, "What's the idea? What's interesting you so much?"

Says the rustic rubber-neck with enthusiasm: "I was just admiring these wonderful Soviet autos—the best in the world."

"Russian? You don't know what you're talking about, comrade," snorts the first.

"Maybe not," says the simple peasant. "But I don't know whom I'm talking to, either."

UP TOP

New color television mast being installed on the top of the Eiffel Tower will boost its height to 999 feet.

But we're going to lose the sight that has always secretly thrilled this column: a massive tricolor of France floating proudly from the top.

There'll be so much gear up there that they can't fly anything bigger than a six foot flag, and that's too small to be seen from ground level.

Nursing Schools To Be Evaluated By Association

Over 100 nurses were present at a meeting of the Victoria Chapter, R.N.A.B.C., to hear Miss Evelyn Mallory, director and professor of the School of Nursing, University of British Columbia, speak of the history making step the Canadian nurses' association is taking.

This association gave the go ahead signal in June 1956 for the establishment of an evaluation program which will eventually lead to accreditation of schools of nursing.

All schools of nursing must be approved by the laws of the province but this approval is based on minimum standards. Accreditation will be voluntary and will be the responsibility of the Canadian Nurses' Association. It will be a seal of approval by the nursing profession placed on a school of nursing after a careful analysis of its program.

It will become a proof that the educational program carried on is worthy of public recognition. It will guide prospective nursing students in their choice of schools. Twenty schools of nursing in Canada will be chosen to take part in a pilot study to establish criteria by which other schools will be evaluated.

Styled in St. Louis

By TRACY ADRIAN

Made of tan silk linen the dress is a straight sleeve sheath with three-quarter, buttoned sleeves trimmed with red polka dot shantung. The collar is also trimmed in the same way and the bow is of shantung. With it is worn a removable, circular cut cape lined in the polka dot fabric.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Sunday

WHEN CHRIST WAS KING—When Jesus rode in to Jerusalem in triumph, His first act was to establish economic justice. He drove the cheating merchants out of the temple. So he linked religion and righteousness as well as religion and business. Secondly, He healed the sick. Thirdly, He condemned the unproductive fig tree. Fourthly He described a man's political responsibility: 'Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's.' Finally He demanded a completely God controlled life. The 23rd chapter of Matthew contains the most bitter indictment of dishonest business and professional men and crooked political leaders ever spoken.

Monday

THE COMING KINGDOM OF GOD—Christ warns us to be ready for His coming. There is the kingdom that is here—the kingdom of righteousness, of proper use of our talents, and of love. There is the kingdom that is coming here—the apocalyptic ending of human history. There will be a Day of Judgment, this judgment to be based on love. Our response is not to be a fear of a righteousness but more especially, a love.

Tuesday

WHY DID MEN CRUCIFY HIM? Because He upset their traditions. He attacked the position and business leaders. He condemned religious hypocrisy and hypocrites. He offended racial and political groups. He was feared as a social, political, and religious revolutionary. He was hated for His goodness, as evil men always hate good men.

Wednesday

HALF-HEARTED FRIENDS—These were the owner of the colt a man with a patron but not a partner who makes a donation but never gives his own person, who needs but never goes; the spectator in Gethsemane who watches with sympathy, but does not get involved and runs from trouble. Famous was who who respected Christ but would not risk personal suffering and ignominy; the publican thief who tries to alleviate the pangs of the Sufferer on the Cross, but does not hit at evil itself; and Joseph of Arimathea who comes to bury Christ, who comes too late.

Is there any sorrier spectacle than the half-hearted friend?

Thursday

THE LORD'S SUPPER—It is the memorial of Jesus Christ. It is also an act of thanksgiving, a pledge of loyalty, a bond of fellowship and a demonstration of the Christian hope of Christ's return. Did we the Blessed Sacrament not far more than all this? It is an experience by the true believer of the life and full life of Christ in his life. Christ is really present in this Sacrament. It is far more than mere symbolism—it is a reality, greater than, or part of, man. The Sacrament is an act of God.

Friday

THE SEVEN LAST WORDS ON THE CROSS—The Word of our great High Priest. 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do;' The word of our King. 'Today Thou shalt be with me in Paradise.' The prophetic word: 'Woman, behold thy Son! . . . Behold thy mother!' the word of the Lamb of God, 'My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?' The word made Flesh, 'I thirst;' the word of the Victorious Saviour, 'Finished!' the word of the Son of God, 'Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit.'

Saturday

THE MEANING OF THE CROSS—[illegible] Men or the angels [illegible] The cross reveals the love of God [illegible] Where men were enslaved they called it ransom. When men felt their enmity to God, they called it atonement or reconciliation. Where men felt that the justice of the universe must demand their utter damnation, they have thought of it as substitution. Reconciliation, redemption, freedom, holiness, holiness, nearness, love and far more' just say the children's hymn.

'There is a green hill far away
Without a city wall
Where the dear Lord was crucified
Who died to save us all.'

Impaired Driver Jailed

Consecutive sentences of three months each were imposed on Leonard Bernard (Buck) Bolger, Box 1[illegible] Colwood, in court yesterday for impaired driving and driving while under suspension.

In Sooke court several motorists were fined. They were:

Wally Watt [illegible] $10 and costs; Spencer [illegible] Avenue, $10 and costs; [illegible] truck, Box 9, Sooke, Peter Latching, $5 and costs, careless driving; William Hay, 2[illegible] Road, wood, $10 and costs, speeding at Sooke from E. Purdy Otter Point, $10 and costs, crossing a double solid line on Sooke Road.

Frances, famous little girl poet Minou Drouet, described as "a cross between one of Beerbohm's dwarfs and Mozart," recently had a fling at the art of dress designing. Another little 12-year-old girl complained, saying: "If she does is cut grownups dresses down to short size."

Germans Demand Atomic Arms

COLOGNE, Germany—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared angrily yesterday that failure to arm West Germany with atomic weapons would wreck western plans for defence against the Soviet threat.

The 81-year-old Chancellor told a Christian Democratic convention that the Atlantic Pact countries, including Germany's new army, must be given weapons as good as those of any of its allies.

The Chancellor said an atomic war would be "the most horrible of horrors," but considers it necessary to prepare for one as the only means of preventing new Russian aggression.

Refugees Get Best

Some 1,600 Hungarians being brought to Canada are getting "champagne flight" treatment that only first class passengers receive, Canadian Pacific Airlines said in Vancouver yesterday.

"The red carpet treatment will include white linen table cloths, filet mignon dinners and the best European wines and champagnes and the attention of a purser and two stewardesses," CPA president Grant McConachie said.

It will be "the de luxe champagne treatment normally reserved for first class passengers," he said.

The red carpet treatment for the 1,600 Hungarians CPA is bringing over under government sponsorship does not cost the taxpayer, it was stressed.

The government pays CPA the "regular immigrant fare, which is low," an official said. "We provide the rest, as a mater of promotion and goodwill."

"We did the same on the Korean airlift for three years, flying the soldiers back and it has paid off. We are getting business now from the U.S. and other places where the people would never have heard of CPA otherwise."

The first of 28 CPA flights arrived at Vancouver yesterday. The next goes to Edmonton and it alternates that way until the migrant air bridge is completed.

The airline is using 67-seat DC-6B aircraft, carrying 58 passengers, making an expected three flights a week from Paris and Amsterdam.

Salmon Netting Banned

Nets will be prohibited in catching salmon on offshore Pacific waters, Fisheries Minister James Sinclair announced yesterday.

The prohibition, as well as other amendments to the B.C. Fishery Regulations, is described as designed as a further conservation measure to protect important fish stocks of the Eastern Pacific Ocean.

Secret Finally Disclosed

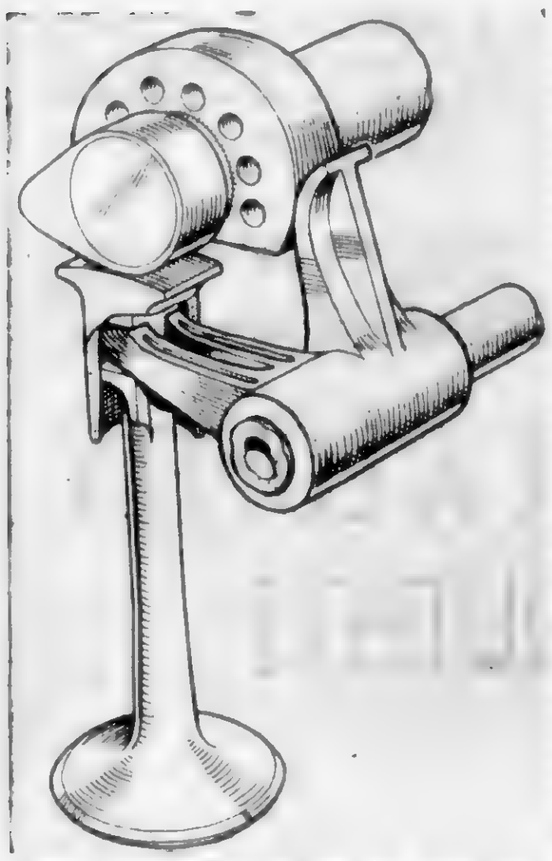

Diagram shows pointed cam lobe that opens valve and circular lobe that moves lever to pull it closed. Valve's motion is under complete control all the time.

By J. T. JONES

The top-secret [illegible] of Daimler-Benz AG have finally [illegible] details of a development [illegible] a [illegible]

Not that desmodromic (or desdromic) valves weren't a familiar idea, or that anybody who was interested didn't have a fair idea of how they were supposed to work. The thing was that nobody outside the charmed circle knew exactly how the builders of Mercedes-Benz racing cars did the trick inasmuch as the cars equipped with them were never sold.

To understand the importance of the development, it is necessary to know the weaknesses of conventional, spring-operated valves.

Present engines use the familiar poppet type valve, operated by the camshaft pushing the foot of the stem, and closed by a powerful spring.

This works wonderfully well at most engine speeds, but when more power is required things start to happen.

Most serious of all is valve float, when the spring is unable to get the valve back into its seat before the cam comes around to open it.

The point where this happens is the safe, useful engine speed, and it limits the speed of a sharp-lobed engine.

There are three approaches to the problem: make the springs more powerful, lighten the whole valve assembly, close the valves positively.

The first approach is the easiest, least expensive and least satisfactory. Definitely, stronger springs raise the speed possible before float sets in, but the limit is set by the strength of all the [illegible] that can be installed and [illegible] that springs happily [illegible] overall" weight.

Lightening the valve train is the purpose behind the increased use of hollow, sodium-cooled valves, and eliminating the pushrods and rocker arms now in general use.

Short of overhead cams, it is possible to trim valves smaller, make rocker arms lighter (Chevrolet's approach) and have tubular pushrods instead of solid ones. Plus, of course, the stronger valve springs.

[illegible] went one to Mercedes-desmodromic-type valve springs, no valve float. One cam opens the valve and another one closes it.

This is an old idea, but no one has been able to make it work with a low, cost, [illegible] mass production [illegible] beautifully simple in concept and there is not the slightest doubt that it is the answer to the chief weakness of the high-speed piston engine.

Each camshaft of the Mercedes engine has two kinds of cam. One kind is a fairly normal-looking lobe for opening each valve. The other is a mathematical opposite of a cam with one side lopped off.

The opening cam works directly over the valve. A short, forked arm straddles the valve stem lower down and engages notches in it. This arm is pivoted around a shaft, and attached to a finger that rides on the closing cam.

So far, so [illegible] to control the [illegible] of the desmodromic [illegible] are high cost of manufacture and noisy operation.

Clearances are [illegible] by a [illegible] adjustment. [illegible] two slightly eccentric sleeves, one inside the other. By [illegible] them it is possible to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to compensate. Of course the [illegible] involved is [illegible] scope, too.

We won't go into the other aspects of this magnificent Mercedes engine, except to mention that its crankshaft is assembled out of 19 separate pieces, and its 10 main bearings, as well as connecting rod and piston pin bearings, are all roller type.

Mining Lease May Not Work

The attempt of the B.C. government to put its oil and mining regulations on a similar basis by its recent amendments to the Minerals Act will not work, according to mining men in the province.

In changing the act the government [illegible] than [illegible] case with coal.

The [illegible] case. [illegible] because [illegible] two methods of development than is the case with mining.

Star Lode Power Gold Mines Company brought in its [illegible] Coast [illegible] 1[illegible] Argyle British Columbia [illegible] first [illegible] [illegible] discovered [illegible] in the province.

At the end of March this year there were [illegible] in the province and [illegible] of which [illegible] are in production.

Mining men claim the short rate of expenditure [illegible] development [illegible] old mines and [illegible] war years not more than [illegible] new mines have gone into production.

[illegible]

[illegible] new Minerals Act [illegible] to speed them up a more way for others who are willing to [illegible].

However, mining [illegible] operate on the basis that [illegible] be assisted. [illegible] privileges they [illegible] with the provincial [illegible] and no loss of [illegible], will make them unwilling to undertake expensive exploration work.

Indeed, mining officials have already warned the government that mining [illegible] companies are considering [illegible] because of the danger to their [illegible].

All Companies Don't Benefit

Not all British companies trading overseas will benefit from the Chancellor of the Exchequer's plan to exclude them from the payment of income tax and profits tax on their overseas operations.

Chancellor Thorneycroft is giving the relief only to those companies which have their head offices and control in Britain.

The many British companies which trade in Canada and elsewhere through wholly-owned subsidiaries will not get the relief.

Among these are the vast Rio Tinto Canada Ltd., Canadian British Aluminium, A.V. Roe Canada Ltd. and British Petroleums through Triad Oil.

Hudson's Bay Company, which still has some control in London may qualify for [illegible] with Bowaters and BA Industries.

The British intention is to encourage British firms to keep their headquarters in Britain and at the same time give them the chance of holding their own against competitors paying their taxes in other countries where the tax incidence may not be so heavy as in Britain.

The British treasury expects that companies trading overseas will escape nearly $100,000,000 of British taxation which they will be able to plough back into their overseas ventures. The relief will [illegible] immediately show up in extra dividends, although not [illegible] it should do so.

* * *

The lack of uniformity of personal taxation in Canada is a factor which concerns practically every taxpayer, from the mightiest corporation to the child who has to pay sales tax on a two-bit [illegible].

Ontario and Quebec with their own succession duties [illegible] corporation taxes provide most of the Canadian complexities, and these affect not [illegible] but [illegible] Canadians as well.

New Tax

This year Ontario has introduced a new 11 per cent corporation tax which means that with a federal tax of 36 per cent, with the security tax of 2 per cent, Ontario companies will have to face a combined corporation tax of 49 per cent.

This is two per cent higher than the corporation tax rate in the nine other provinces.

The Ontario government expects to take in about $100,000,000 a year from the new tax.

Quebec also has a provincial tax of 9 per cent, but its companies only have to pay 15 per cent same as the other provinces which do not levy corporation taxes.

The new Ontario tax has roused the ire of more than one company president. D. W. Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper, said the extra tax per cent which had to be paid in corporation taxes by Ontario firms was bad enough, but it merely intensified the burden on Abitibi whose logging [illegible] had been quadrupled by the provincial government.

Elect Year

Investment [illegible] with a new wave of [illegible] to meet part of the income tax payments on [illegible] are becoming increasingly popular among those with varying [illegible].

The purpose of these funds is to enable investors to elect the most favorable [illegible] in which to redeem [illegible] capital, [illegible].

[illegible] Fund is [illegible] Investment Fund of Montreal which was [illegible] to [illegible] the fund over the [illegible] of private corporation [illegible] at $5.25 a share. In the [illegible] cars for [illegible] Ford cars were offered at $4 a share.

The purpose of the funds is to provide executive [illegible] business men, corporations and others with an investment medium combining [illegible] of income with potential capital growth and permitting them to defer receipt of income to a time when [illegible] may be less.

Optimism

The diehards who cling to the gold standard hope that some day in the future the price of gold will rise along with other metals, [illegible] may be glad to know their optimism appears to be shared by one of the larger mutual funds.

[illegible] that Canada General Fund, managed by Vance, Sanders and Co. of Boston, has been a strong buyer in the three months ending Feb. 28.

Among their new acquisitions are Central Patricia [illegible] shares, Lake Shore [illegible] shares, Mylamaque [illegible] shares, Perron Gold Mines (1,[illegible] shares), Sylvanite Gold Mines (78,500 shares) and Teck Hughes Gold Mines (1,[illegible] shares).

Courtenay Board Seeks Advice

Two members of Courtenay School Board will consult officials of the Education Department in Victoria tomorrow about an appeal against a court decision to allow a Comox couple to teach their child at home.

man of the school board, said last night that school trustees Ben Hughes and Jim Simon would ask advice on what grounds the board could appeal a police court judgment made Thursday.

Magistrate John Ryland dismissed a charge of having failed to send eight-year-old Marcus Quentin Smith to school which was laid against the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]. The decision to appeal the decision was made at a special meeting of the board presided over by Mr. [illegible]. Five trustees were present and voted unanimously to lodge an appeal.

Meanwhile, Marcus Smith will not attend school. He will be taught at home by his mother. The parents feel they can give their child a better education than he would receive at Courtenay School.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

TV needs little censorship because the chicken-hearted networks simply won't offend any one, anyway, but it's always of interest when somebody in or close to the business says his piece about the censorship issue.

Rev. Charles Graf, [illegible] the-Village Church, Manhattan, known as a church for show people, says most North Americans "object to being told what they may do, see or read" and protest by making a point of seeing or reading the forbidden.

He adds: "The danger inherent in any censorship is that no one can really know where it may stop or if it will stop at all. I don't want anyone else to be my conscience. I think I can train my own children to choose the wheat from the chaff!"

Rougers and Hammerstein's "Cinderella" the 90-minute fairy tale starring Julie Andrews is on channel 2 tonight. Reactions varied greatly when this show was first seen two weeks ago. In this view, it's a bore, but many seemed to think differently.

Otherwise, three Palm Sunday shows are listed below. Imogene Coca and Keenan Wynn are on GE Theatre, good movies are "Seventh Veil" and "Broadway Melody," and Odyssey returns on CBS. For the next two weeks only Odyssey will start at 2:15 because of a Christian Science program on channel 11 which would not change [illegible]. After that, Odyssey will start at 2 p.m. each Sunday.

For example $35,000,000 was spent last year just to film commercials of all kinds.

In addition the three networks spent more than $10,000,000 on publicizing their own programs. And the Teleprompter outfit grossed $1,785,000 boosting its net profit by more than 100 per cent to $207,000.

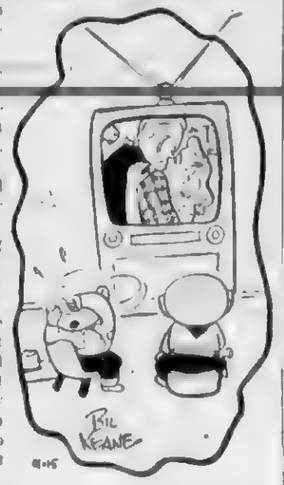
It's official—wrestlers are entertainers, not athletes.

In Minneapolis, a club which stages weekly wrestling programs made the statement in arguing against a proposed five-percent tax on gross receipts. An official said: "There are no punch-drunk wrestlers on any of the town's streets."



"I can't look! Tell me when it's over!"

Today's Best

8:00 a.m. Palm Sunday service from an Episcopal church in Cincinnati (channel 1).

OIL HEAT

To those intending to convert to oil—We invite inquiries to discuss the auto arcing features of the Clayton, Enterprise low-pressure oil-fired units. It is true to say these units will heat the average five-room bungalow for less than one hundred dollars a year. We will gladly submit the addresses of owners who enjoy economy and convenience of this peerless equipment.

Garden Notes — By M. V. Chesnut, FRHS

New Free Seed Offer

About three weeks ago, when I offered to share my seeds of the Fargo Yellow Pear tomato with my fellow gardeners, I asked you to keep a weather eye cocked on this column as I was expecting another windfall in the form of some new and exciting new seeds.

Despit certain difficulties and delays abroad and a spot of trouble with the customs authorities, this gift has now arrived, and it exceeds my fondest expectations. It consists of an enormous bag of seeds, and once again I'd like to share my good fortune with my gardening friends.

This time it is flower seeds — seeds of a Cornflower, but a new and vastly improved Cornflower, yet one retaining all the old-world charm and clear coloring of the old-fashioned Bachelor's Buttons.

The form of the flowers is much the same as in the older kinds, but fully double, and very much larger, the blooms measuring a good two inches across. They are carried on longer stems, too, which improves their performance as cut flowers in the house.

We are accustomed to think of the Cornflower as blue — a very clear, rich, Oxford blue. With the new Early Double hybrids, about half the seeds will produce the typical blue flowers, while the remainder will come in an amazing range of colors — pink, white, mauve, scarlet and a very dark maroon — and all with the clarity of coloring so characteristic of the Cornflower. I don't think I have ever seen a wishy-washy shade in this race of flowers.

The new Cornflowers are particularly good as cut flowers, for with their popery texture of the petals, they will last a good 10 days in water, and are never guilty of the offence of spilling sticky pollen grains on the polished furniture.

As a buttonhole flower, Bachelor's Buttons have no equal, for the bloom is exactly the right size — neither too small nor embarrassingly prominent — and will look as fresh at the end of the day as when freshly cut. The dark maroon one, called Black Boy, is a natural for formal evening wear.

Not the least of the virtues of the Early Double Cornflower is its ease of culture. The seeds need no coddling of any kind — just bung them in the ground and cover them to a depth of one-quarter inch. Germination takes place in eight days, and growth thereafter is amazingly rapid, with the plants reaching blooming size in about four weeks.

As you have probably sensed by now, I am pretty enthusiastic over this new and lovely race of Cornflowers and I am most anxious for all my gardening friends to make their acquaintance. By the look of my bagful of seeds, I figure I can manage at least a couple of dozen seeds for each of my readers who would like to have a go at growing this delightful flower.

If you would like to have a few of the Early Double hybrid cornflowers in your garden this year, then, simply clip the coupon from Tuesday's paper and send it to me, care of The Daily Colonist, together with a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

The Viewing World — By John Crosby

Monster Audience

HOLLYWOOD — It's almost as if we had all seen a different show. I saw "Cinderella" in New York—live and in color. People out here saw it, mostly on kinescope and in black and white. And I have yet to find anyone who liked it out here. The reviews in New York were raves. The reviews out here ranged from indifferent to terrible. (Cinderella will be seen again here tonight—8 p.m. on Channel 2).

* * *

This calls attention to a problem that faces everyone in this business—critics as well as producers and actors and writers. Television casts its little twenty-one-inch picture across a vast space, invading people's homes of varying tastes and habits and backgrounds. In a theatre, all these blend into that monster known as the audience with some uniformity of response. Scattered around in their own living-rooms, they all become individuals full of crotchets and prejudices.

* * *

Forty million people simply do not see the same thing on the screen. In fact, the variations they see in the same show are fairly astounding. There are such things as mixed notices in the theatre but nothing like the mixed notices you get in television.

One person will see a drama of haunting loveliness and charm and intelligence and his best friend will run into him on the street the next day and say: "Wasn't that awful? And such poor taste? And so stupid?"

* * *

You get to wondering—particularly if you are a critic and have to go on record with an opinion—whether you and the rest of the world have the same sensory perceptions. For instance, on "Cinderella," I thought Julie Andrews never looked lovelier and I had my mouth open to say just that when somebody said: "And didn't Julie Andrews look terrible? What did they do to the girl?" Half a dozen people nodded a vigorous confirmation. We just didn't see the same girl, I guess.

* * *

Or perhaps Hollywood is just too blase for fairy tales. This place grew o manhood on variations of Cinderella which earned the place a fortune. It is embarrassing, I guess, for Hollywood to look at the original tale that earned its fortune, stripped of all screen credits to other writers.

Whether it likes fairy tales or not, Hollywood is going to get deluged with them next season. We all are. "Variety" points out that fairy stories, no matter what the critical reception, are enormously successful on television.

* * *

Whether it is because of the age-old appeal or top casts or great advertising and publicity, the audiences for fairy stories have been enormous. The all-time champ is still "Peter Pan".

I guess people are just hungry for the fabulous, the incredible and the romantic. Two of the big movies on the drawing boards are "Don Quixote," which is Mike Todd's next venture, and "Ben Hur," chariots and all. It all seems a long, long way from "Marty" which was a love story about a butcher in the Bronx.

Doctors' Viewpoint

Ethics Firm but Flexible

Last week we described how the medical code of ethics operates in setting up a standard of conduct between doctor and patient. We noted that professions need such codes because they are not in the business of selling visible merchandise. Rather, the relationship between a doctor and patient, or between a lawyer and client, is a relationship of trust.

When the public knows and appreciates the importance of a code of ethics, such trust is possible.

Our code has two other areas of impact, one of which is that between doctor and doctor. Here the code lays down in broad principle the relations that should exist between doctors; honest dealing, courtesy, forbearance and friendliness. Actually they can be summed up in the Golden Rule. However the Golden Rule needs expansion to cover some of the detailed relationships that can arise from time to time.

For example, problems that arise in groups of doctors or partnerships are discussed. There is not, however, anything in the code that forces a doctor to defend another doctor, come what may.

The public sometimes feels that a doctor is ethically bound to "stick up for" his colleagues when they may be in troubles. This is not so, although it is true that since doctors are often assailed by those who cannot judge the merits of the case, their defence must necessarily come from other doctors.

In cases where a physician is in the wrong, it is actually unethical for another physician to protect him.

The code goes into the matter of consultations between doctors. Patients often wonder why a consultant who has examined them at the request of their own physician, says little or nothing to them about his findings. However, the consultant is responsible to the attending doctor, and is duty bound to give a report to him.

A third area where the code of ethics operates is in the matter of relations between the doctor and the community at large. The code goes into some detail about this. Forbidden absolutely is advertising of any kind. "By their works shall ye know them" is the rule for doctors, and any other form of personal advertising is out of the question.

The result of this is that your doctor has to be a very cautious man when it comes to such matters as being quoted in the press or interviewed on TV.

Since it is necessary for the public to know something of what is going on in the medical profession, doctors are permitted to participate in forums, write special articles or take part in broadcasts when they have been requested to by their medical association.

When they do these things, personal publicity must be kept to a minimum.

However the code does not prohibit the doctor from taking part in community life and assuming the responsibilities of citizenship. His training often fits him particularly well for service in public, and the profession is proud of the number of its members who have been able to contribute to the nation quite apart from their medical duties.

It is not easy to put ethics into words, and our code cannot hope to cover everything that the term involves.

Conditions change with time, but the broad principles of conduct, honesty and integrity are eternal and will always be the basis of Medical Ethics.

There are two schools of thought on the subject of free bids and free raises. Some experts counsel ultra-conservatism; they would not bid freely on West's cards. But unless West can raise to two hearts over South's one-spade bid, East must take his life in his hands in order to compete against North's leap to four spades.

When West freely raised to two hearts, East could afford to bid five diamonds. He intended this as a sacrifice bid, but with help from the defenders, he actually made his contract. After trumping the spade, East led the king of diamonds. North won and continued spades—the one bit of help East required.

He ruffed with the diamond ten, led a heart to dummy's king, trumped another spade with the queen of diamonds, and led his last trump. Dummy's jack-nine drew South's remaining trumps, after which East's hearts furnished discards for two of dummy's losers. The defenders got only one club and one diamond.

South couldn't be blamed for failing to defeat the contract by opening a club, but North shouldn't have helped declarer by leading the second spade. A heart return would have left dummy short of the entries needed to trump two more spades, and get back to draw trumps.

However, even if a perfect defence had defeated East's contract one trick, it could not have equalled the North-South score at the other table. There West failed to compete by giving the free raise in hearts. Therefore, South was allowed to play four spades, at which contract he lost only two hearts and one trump trick.

Secondary Roles

TUTS Accepts City Singers

Three Victoria singers, sopranos Ruth Champion and Kitty Dixon and tenor Mickey Rogers, have been accepted by the Theatre Under The Stars company in Vancouver for productions this summer, it was announced yesterday.

They will have secondary roles in the four TUTS productions in Malkin Bowl, Stanley Park, from June 24 to August 31—"Pajama Game," "Kiss Me, Kate," "Where's Charley?" and "Student Prince."

Leading roles in the four musicals will be taken by American tenors Robert Roumaville and Ralph Magelssen, tenor Robert Goulet of Toronto, American soprano Mary La Roche, Vancouver sopranos Betty Phillips and Wendy Martin and Vancouver comedian Barney Potts.

Accordion Band Gives Program

Members of Ward's Accordion Band, under the direction of G. Englis, entertained patients at the Provincial Mental Home, Colquitz, Thursday evening.

The importance of giving elderly patients in nursing and boarding homes a greater interest in living was stressed by J. Courtney Haddock, president of the Silver Threads Service at a recent meeting.

During the meeting, a display of pensioners' handicraft was featured and plans were discussed for stimulating such activities through a pensioners' hobby club and finding retail outlets.

Any elderly persons interested in forming such a club should contact the Silver Threads Service at 2-5121.
